

THIRTY FIRST YEAR

LANCASTER, KY., THURSDAY AFTERNOON, MAY 13, 1920.

NUMBER 9.

MEMORIAL SERVICES

Sunday Evening May 30th. School Auditorium.

On Sunday evening May 30th at 8 P. M. the American Legion of Post Heidal Sanford No. 35 will hold memorial services for the ones who died for their country, in the great war.

These services will be held at the School Auditorium in Lancaster, Ky. at 8 P. M. and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

The American Legion of this county is growing by leaps and bounds and it stands for the Ex. Service man and every Ex. Service man should show that he fought to make the world safe for democracy by being a member and backing the great work that this the American Legion is doing.

All the Services that the American Legion of this Post has held in the past have gone down in history as one of the best programs ever given to the public and every man, woman and child in Garrard County should help the local post advertise this meeting and be present, on Sunday evening May 30th, at the School Auditorium at 8 P. M.

It is the desire that all Ex. Service men meet at the Court House in Lancaster, Ky. on this date and march to the Auditorium in a body, seats will be reserved for them. They will also have an ornament for all Ex. Service men to wear.

Real Estate Sale.

Swinebroad, the Real Estate Man, sold for John D. Rich, 17 1/2 acres of land with improvements, located on the Fall Dick pike, to H. H. Lee for $8,000.00. Possession January 1st.

Lodge Inspection

The local chapter of the Masonic Order was inspected last Monday evening by Mr. H. Dunigan, of Danville, four candidates taking the Royal Arch degree on this evening. The work was well executed and brought favorable comment from Mr. Dunigan, who also found the Chapter in a flourishing condition.

Gulley Farm Sells.

The Robert Gulley farm recently bought by J. I. Hamilton, and lying on the Buckeye pike sold at public auction last Saturday and was quite a success. This farm was sold in six tracts and was purchased by the following parties, Messrs Dan Ray, Milo Simpson, Noah Marsee, Jim Locker, Charlie Doolin and Flute Turner.

Mr. Ray got the home place containing 31 acres for which he paid $400.00 an acre. The whole farm contained 175 acres and sold at an average of $309.00 an acre.

Sells Fine Farm.

Hon. James I. Hamilton, one of the leading attorneys at the Lancaster bar, is a wheel horse not only as a lawyer, politician and financier, but as an agriculturist. He is now the largest land owner in Garrard County and among the largest tobacco growers of Central Kentucky. Some weeks ago he bought the C. M. Dean farm at Camp Dick Robinson containing 160 acres. He paid $350 an acre for the place and sold it this week to Mr. Gulley, of the Buckeye section, at $345 per acre, probably the highest price strictly farming land has ever sold for in Garrard. Mr. Hamilton still has in his possession fully a thousand acres of the fertile soil.—Farmers Home Journal.

Buys Danville Property

Messrs. James Smith and Clay Kauffman, of Lancaster, who have recently purchased the Webster property on Maple Avenue, which has a frontage of 264 feet on Maple, will shortly open up a new sub-division, which they claim will be the most attractive yet opened up in Danville. They will open an inviting court into this division and there will be about eighty lots they will then offer for sale. They expect to have this property ready to offer with in the next few weeks. Watch for announcement in the Advocate for full particulars. Danville is the best town on earth to sell lots in, as there is no place that is so sorely need of more houses. The property lays well and should and will be readily taken up by the bidders.

BIG LAND DEAL.

J. I. Hamilton Buys The Cream of Lower Garrard.

One of the biggest land deals that was ever pulled off in Garrard county or we might say in any county adjoining, was consummated last Friday morning when Mr. James I. Hamilton closed a deal, transferring to him, 677 acres of the cream of lower Garrard, belonging to Messrs Robert Rankin, David Rankin and Charles Rankin.

These farms all lie in the Camp Dick Robinson section of the county, just along the Lancaster and Lexington pike and just about as good as a crow ever flew over. One of the farms purchased belonged to Mr. Robert Rankin, contained 340 acres and formerly known as the Perkins farm. The one adjoining belonged to Charles Rankin and contained only 57 acres, the other farm purchased by Mr. Hamilton, was the 280 acre farm of D. F. Rankin, and formerly known as the Jones Adams place.

Naturally everyone wants to know the price paid for these excellent farms, but this we are unable to give, but feel safe in saying it was above the $350.00 mark, if not near $400.00. None of the parties to the deal would give any figures, but from the price of some recent farms that have been sold that practically joins these, the above figures are not far wrong.

Mr. Hamilton gets possession of them January 1st, 1921, and it is to be hoped that none of the Rankin family will leave Garrard as they have all been tried and proven to be among the best citizens of the county.

At Antioch.

Rev. E. B. Hourland of the Lancaster Christian church will preach at Antioch next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. The members of that congregation are cordially invited to hear him.

Colored School Closes.

A large crowd filled the Opera House last night, to witness the commencement exercises of Lancaster Colored High school.

There were eleven graduates, all taking part in a musical program each acquiring himself with credit. This school has prospered under the leadership of Prof. J. J. Green and efforts are being made to retain him for another year.

On His Job

If Tom Slaughter thinks he can pull off a robbery in Lancaster, he will get badly left for with Stanley Herron on the job as he has been for months, keeping an eagle eye on all strangers, it would be a difficult job for him to escape Stanley and his automatic shotgun, loaded with balls that kills for miles.

Stanley is making an ideal deputy marshal and he's liable to "get you if you don't watch out."

Big Lot Sale

Everybody is talking about the big lot sale that will be pulled off in Lancaster next Wednesday morning beginning promptly at 10: A. M. Lots of this character are as scarce as hen teeth in Lancaster and are very much in demand. "Dickerson Court" is where the sale will be conducted and about forty nice building lots have been staked off forming a beautiful court. Read the advertisement, come to the sale and pick up a bargain. Don't wait until the "other fellow" gets his and then have to pay him a profit. Get in on the ground floor.

Quiet Court at Stanford

Last Monday was a quite court day at Stanford, many of the farmers having more business at home than in this little city and as a result little business was done in the trading line. Cattle was in some demand and practically sold at prices ranging from 10 to 11 cents.

Edgar and N. H. Price bought 19 head of nice yearlings from Ike Shelby for 11 cents a pound. They weighed about 700 pounds. In turn Price brothers resold them to Mr. Shelby to be taken in October, for ten cents a pound. Just at a glance this doesn't look like good business, selling for less than they cost, but at least 300 pounds should be put on them thus realizing the owners a good price for the grazing. Logan Hubble sold a dandy walking mare to Winchester parties for $350.00.

LEXINGTON

Spend Two Hours In Lancaster Get-to-gether Meeting Proves Quite A Treat For All.

For two hours last Tuesday, the citizens of Lancaster were treated to one of the happiest occasions that has taken place here in many months. It was all because that splendid bunch of Lexington's "Good-fellowship" citizens dropped in upon us and where our pleasant guests for two short hours. If her citizenship can be judged by the sample that composed that motorecade, then Lexington should be proud indeed, to have such men call the "Blue Grass" capitol their home.

The only thing that marred their stay, was the rain that came up suddenly, just as the performance was about to begin on the public square. The party composed of nearly one hundred, traveling in autos reached our city about 1:30 o'clock, being about 30 minutes later than their schedule. They went at once to the Kengarian where lunch was prepared in anticipation of their coming, at which time they were most cordially welcomed by our local townsman, Mr. Joe S. Haselden, in a neat little speech, and of course incidentally told them of that famous health resort, Crab Orchard Springs, of which he is the general manager. He told them of the needs for better railroad service to and from Lexington and handed them a schedule, which he and John Farra had already mapped out, that caught the eye and ear of the entire party, and the promise from Hon. Frank Jones, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Lexington to take the matter up at an early meeting and give every aid possible, to see that the train service, which "Lexington needs and Lancaster wants," becomes a reality.

On account of the rain the crowd was taken to the court house, where some delightful music was given by the Band of State University, after which talks were made by Harry Giovannoli, editor of the Lexington Leader and Hon. Wood G. Dunlap, one of Lexington's City Commissioners.

Both of these gentlemen formerly lived in Lancaster. Mr. Giovannoli at one time, "about 37 years ago" he was a "devil" in the office of Central Record. He has made rapid strides since he left his adopted home and today stands at the top and edits one of the best papers in Kentucky.

Hon. Wood G. Dunlap talked for ten minutes and at times during his remarks was overcome with emotion, while speaking of his early days spent here where he was born about sixty years ago, at the old Dunlap home where now stands the Lancaster Graded and High school.

That prince of good fellows, Frank P. Jones, was master of ceremonies and was up and at it all the time. All in all it was a delightful occasion and we wish they could come oftener.

Jury Money Ready

Mr. Joe J. Walker informs us the jury money is ready for those who served during the March term of the Circuit Court.

Adjudged Insane

Miss Virgie Worrel was brought before the County Judge Stapp yesterday adjudged of unsound mind. She was taken immediately to Lakeland.

Liberal Donation

The church at Level Green has donated $20.00 to the Armenian and Syrian Relief fund and have sent the contribution to Mr. A. D. Joseph who is the chairman of this important committee work. Garrard is far behind with her quota for this work, and those who have not subscribed should send in the contributions at once.

RANKIN'S BUY

BOYLE FARM

Deal Made Yesterday For Col. R. G. Evans Farm

A deal was closed in Danville yesterday afternoon by which Messrs. Robert, D. F. and Charles Rankin come into possession of the Col. R. G. Evans farm in Boyle County, located on the Perryville pike and known as Col. Evans' Salt River farm, containing 840 acres and said to be one of the best farms in that county. This deal has been on foot for several weeks, in fact negotiations began for the farm before the deal was closed with J. I. Hamilton, when he purchased 677 acres of them on the Lexington pike in this county.

Messrs. Rankin will get possession of the Evans farm on January 1st, next at which time they turn over their Garrard interests to Mr. Hamilton.

The consideration for Evans farm is $220,000, or about $260.00 an acre. From what knowing ones say, this farm is thought to be about the best one in Boyle County, considering the acreage.

It will be serious loss to Garrard County in giving up these splendid people, but they will be quite an asset to Boyle and add much to the citizenry of that county.

PAUL JONES

The Derby Winner

Quite a number from Lancaster saw Paul Jones win the 46th, Kentucky Derby at Louisville last Saturday, in the presence of a crowd estimated by many to have been sixty thousand. The track was slow and the time made was in 2:09, which was considered good considering the track conditions. Two dollar bets paid $34.40, but there were not many from here who held the winning tickets. The best field ever entered in this famous classic started and there were seventeen.

White Youth Alone Is Indicted in Kidnaping.

The Boyle county grand jury has returned an indictment against Keith Phillips, 16-year-old white boy, on the charge that he alone abducted and beat 7-year-old William Trimble.

The Trimble lad, who appeared before the jury, was somewhat confused and could offer little definite information. He still held, however, that a negro was along with Phillips in the attack. It is believed that Phillips is of unsound mind.

"No indictments were returned against any members of the mob that attempted to seize Lucian Jenkins, the negro suspect, as no evidence was obtained implicating anyone positively in the movement. Jenkins will be released from the Lexington jail.

Peace.

On Friday, May 8th., as day began to show its rays of light, the Angel of Death hovered its icy wings over the home of Mrs. P. T. Peace and claimed her husband, Mr. P. T. Peace. Mr. Peace was born in Bell County but for the past forty years he had made his home near Crab Orchard. In early life he married to Miss Mary Hays of that place, who is left to mourn his loss together with four sons children, three sons, Joe, George and Hubert and one daughter, Mrs. Nute Wallace of Colo. also two sisters, Mrs. I. H. Plattner of Mo. and Mrs. C. J. Hall of Mo. and three brothers, Mr. A. T. Peace of Williamsburg, Mr. Fate Peace of Grand Pass, Mo. and Mr. J. S. Peace of Lancaster, all of whom we extend our deepest sympathy in their deep hour of sorrow.

His death was due to tuberculosis and all that loving hands could do was done but to no avail. He bore his sufferings without a murmur, and asked for no one to be troubled about him. May the words he left behind be words of comfort and rest assured he is at peace for when he realized death was near, he asked no one to grieve for him, that he was not alone, God would be with him all the way. He was a true member of the Beth Church.

After the funeral services at the Church he was laid to rest peacefully beneath a beautiful mound of flowers to await the coming of a brighter day. —Mary Ellen Peace.

COL. DAN MORGAN SMITH

To Speak At Presbyterian Church Next Thursday Evening

Under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League and the State League, Col. Dan Morgan Smith, will speak to the citizens of Lancaster and Garrard county, at the Presbyterian church, Thursday evening, May 20th, his subject being "The World's War and the Fields of France."

Col. Smith commanded the famous "Battalion of Death" in the battle of St. Mihiel with 1,200 men and came out with only 327. The name was given, not because the Huns killed so many of his men, but because his men killed so many of the Huns.

In speaking of the address he is to give here, he said:

"In this address I shall tell of the war as I saw it in the St. Mihiel Drive; going over the top at Fayon-Haye; the advance on Villy; the taking of Hill 350.4; Les Quatre Chemins (where my battalion was surrounded by Germans and cut off from regiment, and where we held off three regiments of the enemy.) (This is where the battalion won the name of THE BATTALION OF DEATH;) of the fighting at Les Hunt Chemins, Vieville, Verdun and the Argonne Forest.

I shall try to make my audience see life as it was in the trenches, on the march, on the advance and on the battlefield. I shall tell them of fighting in the woods, hand-to-hand conflicts, and of the brave things the officers and men of my command did. In brief, I shall try to take them with me over all those wonderful, horrible never-to-be-forgotten victorious days."

JOIN THE LEGION

The American Legion of Post Heidal Sanford No. 35, Lancaster, Ky., wishes that all men who served their country from this County would be a member of this Post, show your friends that you served them and that you are a 100 per cent American by belonging to the Legion. While your friends stayed at home in absolute safety, you acted as a man and fought for your Country. Remember ONLY MEN WHO HAVE RECEIVED AN HONORABLE DISCHARGE ARE ELIGIBLE. NO SLACKERS, OR DRAFT EVADERS, I. W. W. s., are NOT ELIGIBLE.

Remember the American Legion will meet in Lancaster, Thursday night, May 27th., at the Police Court Room at 7:30 P. M. Come and enroll as a member.

Memorial Services will be held at the School Auditorium, Sunday evening, in Lancaster, Ky., May 30th. at 8 P. M.—All Ex. Service men asked to meet at the Court House in Lancaster Sunday evening, May 30, and march to the Auditorium in a body. LETS MAKE THE AMERICAN LEGION THE STRONGEST ORGANIZATION IN THE COUNTY.

NOTICE

To The Citizens of Lancaster, Ky.

Honorable Mayor, City Council and People of Lancaster, Ky:—

Whereas, the franchise now held by us is void by reason of being in conflict with the State Constitution, and

Whereas, we have no franchise for operating our plant in the City of Lancaster, Ky., because the same is void as aforesaid, the City Council of the City of Lancaster, Ky., and the public generally are hereby notified that we will on August 1st, 1920, or as soon thereafter as practical, move all our poles and electrical equipment from the streets of the city of Lancaster, Ky.

This notice is given as a legal notice, as we understand that reasonable notice must be given before we can remove said property and discontinue said plant.

We are willing to do anything we can to co-operate with the city in securing a franchise for the purpose of furnishing electric light and power to the citizens of the city, but we can not continue it further without expensive additional equipment, and this we can not do at the present rates and without a legal franchise protecting us in our rights.

Done this April 26th, 1920.
Respectfully submitted,
BASTIN BROTHERS,
By H. V. Bastin.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH DRIVE

Local Disciples to Reach Quota Next Sunday.

Incomplete reports from over the State indicate that the financial drive of the Disciples World Movement is making fine progress. In several places congregations subscribed their full quota's last Sunday. In many places the goal was so nearly reached, that it is only a matter of seeing the scattered membership to reach the apportionment.

In Garrard county good progress is being made. The quota for the Lancaster congregation, was $5800.00. More than half of this amount was raised last Sunday; quite a good deal more has been raised since then. It is believed by next Sunday, when the campaign is supposed to close the full amount will have been subscribed. Many members of the congregation are yet to be seen and if these remaining ones do as well as those who have already subscribed, there will be no doubt as to the final result. Equally as good progress is being made at Fairview and Pleasant Grove. The quota of the former is $925.00 and of the latter $1500.00. Rev. C. B. Holder assisted by some of his good members, is making an active campaign at both these places and the members are responding nicely. Definite reports from the other congregations have not been received as we go to press; but while the campaign is possibly not as well advanced in the remaining congregations as in the ones named, and while consequently the work may not be fully completed by May 16th, it is hoped that every congregation will reach its full quota.

WILSON'S ILLS

CAUSE DOUBT

Democratic Leaders are in Dark As to Real State of President's Health.

PUBLIC SOON TO KNOW.

WASHINGTON.—Speculation is increasing in Washington regarding the actual condition of President Wilson's health as the time approaches when he must either demonstrate that he can keep his place as leader of the Democratic party or relinquish it.

The idea that he may be a third-term candidate is laughed at by some Democratic leaders, but the possibility that he may take a hand in the campaign to the extent of designating a favorite candidate is considered so strong that it admittedly is holding back Democratic aspirants.

The President's exact condition, of course, is unknown except to Dr. Grayson and members of his immediate household. The fact that no bulletins are issued and all attaches have adopted a policy of saying nothing keeps the ground fertile for crops of rumors that come up over night like mushrooms.

Members of the Cabinet have seen the President several times and testify that his old mental alertness is the same as ever. It is understood, however, that he already is seated at his place at the table when Cabinet members begin entering the room.

The public has seen Wilson repeatedly in his motor rides since the weather became moderate. Fleeting glimpses of him as he rides past in his open touring car seem to indicate that he looks better than when he first came out of absolute seclusion.

Delay in the President's seeing Sir Auckland Geddes, the new British Ambassador, after it had been expected he would be given an early audience, is causing comment and new suggestions in Washington.

While in the White House the President remains practically all the time in that part which is the "home" part or in the study, and his amusements still consist, it is understood, of occasional motion pictures. But he sees his secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, frequently now, and is said to be keeping in close touch with political developments.

If President Wilson is to plunge into the political campaign, it must be apparently within a month or six weeks from now, so that period is expected to clear up many of the doubts and rumors that have centered around the White House since the President returned, ill, from his speaking tour last September.

Attend the Big Auction Lot Sale at Lancaster, Wednesday, May 19th. Brass Band will furnish music.

ERNST ENTERS SENATE RACE

CANDIDATE NOTED FOR EXTENSIVE CHARITY WORK

EDUCATOR AND "Y" LEADER

Ardent Supporter of Movement
To Wipe Out Illiteracy

It is hardly necessary to introduce Richard P. Ernst, whose candidacy for the United States Senate has just been announced, to the average Kentuckian.

His name has appeared throughout the state in connection with charitable movements, war campaigns, church and missionary work and drives to aid the schools and school teachers, especially in the mountain districts.

His charitable work, aggressiveness and progressiveness in civic movements and personal popularity have made him one of the most generally admired men in Northern Kentucky.

His extensive work in the interests of his state and its people began immediately upon Mr. Ernst's graduation from the famous Old Centre College, Danville, where he was valedictorian of his class.

Admitted to Bar.

He was admitted to the bar in Kenton county after examination by Senator John W. Stevenson and Judge William R. Arthur and since has practiced law in Covington and Cincinnati with the same aggressiveness and success that have featured every movement worth while into which he has directed his efforts.

Glancing over the long list of his activities one can see that he continually has enlisted himself in movements in which he could accomplish best results for the people.

As trustee and a member of the Executive Committee of Old Centre College, Kentucky State University at Lexington, and of Pikeville College, his excellent advice and assistance in matters of importance have been extremely beneficial to the students.

Wars On Illiteracy.

Recently he has taken a deep interest in the campaign teachers are waging for increased salaries and has been taking active steps to secure better pay both for the teachers of the state and for the professors in our colleges and universities. The mountain schools especially appeal to him and he has been an ardent supporter of the movement to wipe out illiteracy and to offer residents of the mountain districts better facilities for education.

Mr. Ernst's continuous help has been received by the churches of the state, regardless of denomination. He is an elder and succeeded his father as superintendent of the Sunday-school, their terms of service covering a period of nearly 50 years. He has been looking after educational and missionary work in the mountains, as chairman of the State Committee of his church, and has succeeded in more than doubling the amount heretofore given for this purpose.

And his work does not end there. He is president of the Covington Y. M. C. A. and a member of the National War Council. As head of the Y. M. C. A. he has been mainly instrumental in erecting one of the most complete and modern buildings to be found.

Son in Active Service.

He was active in every form of war work and gave continuously of his time, labor and money, whenever called upon. His only son was serving at the front in France, as a captain in the regular army, when the armistice was signed. He had entered the army as a private during the Mexican trouble and later passed his examinations at Washington, winning a second lieutenancy. Mr. Ernst's son-in-law, John P. Darnall, of Flemingsburg, volunteered as a private and also was in active service at the front.

His wide and extensive business and professional experiences, as counselor and advisor to many large financial and manufacturing concerns, has been of unlimited value to his state and community, as he has been called upon many times to give advice when matters of big moment were being considered.

Mr. Ernst's record of service in the Republican party is a long one.

Good Republican Record.

Beginning as a Congressman in Covington, he was kept in office by members of both parties until he insisted on retiring. For many years he was on the State Central Committee and for four years served as its chairman. He has represented his district a number of times at National Conventions and also has been one of the "Big Four" from his state. It was he, who, while state chairman, established state headquarters at Louisville, since continuously maintained by the party. He also has been a liberal financial supporter of the party during all three years and one of its wise counselors.

Mr. Ernst's father was William Ernst, a banker at Lexington, subsequently Covington. His mother was Sarah A. Butler, a Jessamine county girl.

It was through Mr. Ernst's instrumentality that the Covington Industrial Club was developed and through his efforts that the campaign to erect a magnificent headquarters for this remarkable civic organization was successful. —Advertisement.

A NAME REDEEMED

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

The great iron-studded gates of the prison opened and shut and the solitary figure shut out stood like a cast-away landed into a new world. There had been two years of gloom, shadow, darkness. The unaccustomed brilliant sunlight dazzled, blinded, confused.

The discharged convict looked down at the cheap, but new and neat suit they had given him, then at two unexpected letters in his hand. A very unexpected and unusual circumstance had greeted him as the warden sent him forth a free man.

"Here are two letters," the official said. "One came a year ago, the other within the present month. In both instances they were inclosures, with notes requesting they be delivered to you only upon the day you were given your liberty."

Irving Disloe now turned these over and over in his hand, thoughtful, reminiscent, as he walked slowly along the path leading from the penitentiary to the street where the trolley cars ran. Here there was a bench for waiting passengers. He sat down and opened the smaller of the two envelopes. His face was expectant, rather than hopeful. It contained two lines and a signature, "Adele." It read:

"When you have fully redeemed and established yourself, write to me."

His bosom heaved and his eyes dimmed with tears as he read and reread the brief scroll. It was some time before he opened the second letter. Its handwriting was totally unfamiliar to him. It inclosed a $100 bill, and he stared at this in wonderment. It began, "My husband," and his bewilderment increased as it continued: "Poor as I and the three little ones are, we spare the means of starting you in life anew. For their sake you will not come home unless time and isolation and a realization of what your temptation has brought you have conformed to make you worthy of their love and respect. I shall always respect you, despite your desertion, but the present toll and deprivation would be welcome rather than that you should come back as you were—a drug maniac."

Of course, Disloe comprehended that the letter and its inclosure had never been meant for him. There were two Irving Disloes in the world, and in some way the deserted wife had learned, probably from some stray press item, that Irving Disloe was a convict. If it had ever been a worthy name, two bearing the same had degraded it. The man just released from prison bowed his head in shame as he considered this.

He could later scarcely retrace the mental or spiritual urging, or both combined, that induced him to pursue a direct course which led him to Clivenden, hundreds of miles away, whence the letter signed "Marion Disloe" had been sent. As to that other Adele, heart of hope was his only. If he pursued the straight path time must prove his sincerity. There was something that appealed to him pathetically in the lines from the deserted wife. He had her money. It must be returned. She probably longed for her husband, sad wreck and ruin that he had been. Yes, he would seek her out, return the money, tell his story and start out to find, to redeem the husband who, like himself, had fallen by the wayside. Ah! It would be a noble work, and the inspiration of it elevated his soul.

But there was no Marion Disloe to seek at Clivenden. She had died a few months previous. Nor was that other Irving Disloe to be sought for. Word had come of his death in a public institution a few weeks before. And the three little children were inmates of an orphan asylum.

From Clivenden Irving Disloe, convict, disappeared for a half year. At the end of that time he returned, looking prosperous and with the confidence of a man rooted to the solid rock of integrity in his face. He offered to assume permanent charge of the three little children, and when he gave his name as Irving Disloe those in charge of the institution supposed him to be a relative of the dead man, and he did not undeceive them.

It was two years to a day that Irving Disloe, convict, had merged in a new identity. How well he had held to rectitude and to his secret pledge to be worthy of Adele Warren, his record in a new career might tell without a flaw. He was a thousand miles distant from his new home, from the three little children whom he had rescued from neglect and loneliness and placed in the comfortable little home he had temporarily left. Irving Disloe stood in the presence of Adele Warren now, relating the story of those two golden years. She who had always loved him was in tears as the narrative of struggle, hope and faith fell from his lips.

"It has been so lonely since mother died!" she sobbed, and let his arms enfold her as one seeking the shadow of a great rock in a thirsty land.

She was a bride that same day, and a happy one, but all her engerness of soul went forth to join, to nurture, to love the little brood in the sweet rose-embowered home where they called him "papa," and where all the joy of life seemed to have fallen to her portion as they clustered to her embrace, bright jewels in her crown of womanhood while life should last.

DAVID'S HOUR

By JACK LAWTON.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

David sat before the fireplace in the cozy room and looked earnestly at his old friend. The room was filled with books; and a desk stood in the center, half curtains were at the window, where a doctor's sign with gilt lettering hung above. David had done his best to turn his mother's sitting room into a doctor's consulting office. The old friend looked back at David, and sympathy was in his gaze.

"It's tough," he said, "after all the years you've planned for this, boy, to have it fall through. Your mother and me used to sit and talk of the time when you'd come back from college and have the whole town calling you for their sick. You'd made a good doctor, too; there's no question about it. Better'n the big one that's come out of the city. He's had none of the struggles you've had to find his place."

"His dad is one of the big specialists in the city. Thought it would be a good thing to start his son on his own feet, so he bought him the Fallum place and got him established. We sure did need a doctor. And Doc Wells dropping off sudden, this new one fell soft into his place, the place that should have been waiting for you, David. Everyone seemed to take to Doc Breerton right off. Maybe it was his fine car that impressed 'em, or the housekeeper in cap and tucker that opens the door at his house. Anyway, I'm sure there's nothing for you here now, son, an' you'd better hunt another stand. Rent this house and start out for another town. We'll miss you, but I'm telling you just how things are."

David nodded gravely. "Thanks," he replied. "but I guess I'll stick. Doctor Breerton may take all the regular patients. I can see how our families would welcome a city practitioner. But there must be others who could use me; the lower town folks perhaps, or those across the bridge."

"Land alive boy!" the old man exclaimed, "how'd you expect to make a living off those folks? Most of 'em's on charity now."

"I always have managed to live some way," David said slowly.

"You have, David." Dan warmly agreed, "and against all odds you've reached your chosen goal."

The old man paused. "Helen Carson rides out a good deal with Doc Breerton," he said brusquely, "some folks think it's going to be a match. Sure would suit her father down to the ground; you know how Carson is—no one round here ever was good enough for his daughter."

"No one, you mean?" David corrected. "and money enough, in his opinion, to be eligible as a husband for his daughter."

"That's it," Dan said, "and the girl cares so much for her fool father that she'd never cross him. Well, good night David, I'm sorry you haven't a better welcome."

David decided to stick and do what he could. He met Nell next day. She was driving with the capable and confident Breerton, and after her little eager cry, Nell had in a whispered word asked to be allowed to speak to him.

He was fortunate in meeting the girl after that, down by the bridge now white with the snows of winter, or in the wood road perhaps, with evergreens on either side. And Nell confessed to him that Hal Breerton wanted her for his wife, and that her father wanted it too.

"And you care for him, Nell?" he managed to ask.

The girl regarded him quietly.

"Certainly not, David," she said; "I shall never marry Hal Breerton."

David's heart sang as he walked home alone.

From despairing, waiting hours of idleness, the telephone called him. He was wanted at Hillcrest.

"I'll come at once," he responded, and started unbelieveingly.

Hillcrest was the new doctor's assured province. The phone called again as David drew on his coat—then still again! He was to be very busy, he told himself jubilantly. Then came the explanation. Old Dan gave it over the wire.

"The epidemic has caught Doctor Breerton," he said. "He's a sick man, and his patients are all scared to death because there isn't another doctor within two miles, and not one would venture out on these roads in this blizzard and weather. Go to it, David; cure 'em all up, and make your reputation."

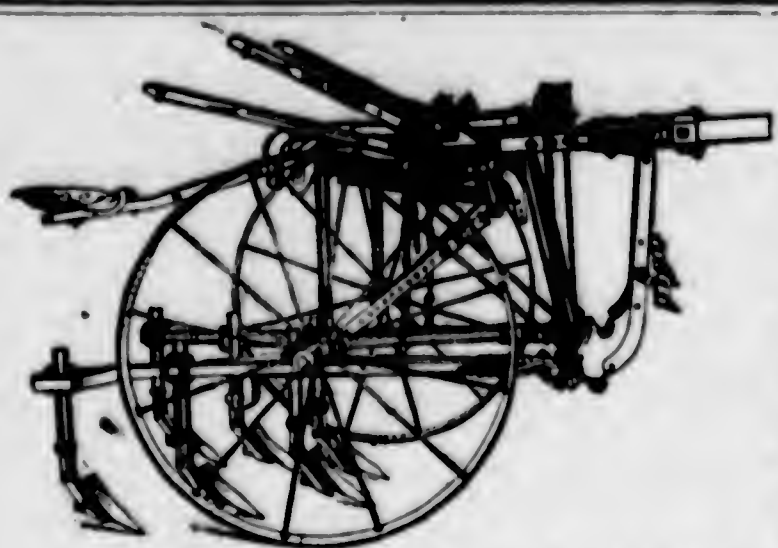

And that is exactly what David did. Fearlessly he attended every sick-bed, thankful for the experience which had been given him in this dreaded disease. His skill was soon recognized—David had arrived. Carson, the important, was the latest to succumb. And he was obliged to call David. There was no other way. Doctor Breerton had gone to the city to convalesce. He had admitted to David that he intended to remain there.

"Won't be room for two of us now in that small burg," he had said. And as David bent over the sick man, to the great Carson came the realization of his own helplessness, and a strange, new confidence in another's power.

"You'll pull me through?" he begged feebly.

"I will," David forcefully replied. And he did.

But as he stood there, with Carson's trustful hand clasping his, and with Nell's shining eyes upon him—that was David's hour.

LIVE STOCK

LESS FARM ANIMALS IN 1919

Interesting to Note That Mules and Milch Cows Show Slight Increase in Numbers.

A slight increase in the number of milch cows and mules, and a moderate decrease in the number of other cattle (calves, steers, bulls, and cows not for milk), horses, sheep, and swine are the outstanding features of a survey of live stock on farms and ranges of the United States on January 1, as compared with a year ago, made by the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture.

Milch cows have increased about 272,000 head, or 1.2 per cent; mules increased 41,000 head or 0.8 per cent; "other" cattle (as designated above) decreased 700,000 head, or 1.6 per cent; horses decreased 373,000 head, or 1.7 per cent; sheep decreased 251,000 head, or 0.5 per cent; and swine decreased 1,075,000 head, or 2.2 per cent.

The estimated number of animals on farms and ranges January 1 are 21,100,000 horses, 4,000,000 mules, 23,747,000 milch cows, 44,385,000 other cattle, 48,015,000 sheep, and 72,000,000 hogs. The total of all animals is 218,700,000, which is 2,000,000 head, or 1.2 per cent, less than a year ago.

The total value of all farm animals on January 1 was about $8,501,000,000, which is a shrinkage of $295,000,000, or 3 per cent, compared with a year ago. It is an interesting observation that mules and milch cows which increased in numbers also increased in value per head; whereas all other classes of animals decreased in value per head, as well as in total numbers.

RULES FOR LIVE STOCK MEN

Satisfied Purchaser Is Best Advertisement and Breeder Should Live Up to Guarantee.

Here are ten good rules for live stock breeders, vouched for by the animal husbandry men at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca:

- Be honest.
- Choose a breed, and stick to it.
- Breed with the correct type in mind.
- Study pedigree for inherited characteristics, relative merit and value.
- Keep your herd or flock free from disease.
- Develop the young animals and maintain the breeding animals through wise feeding and management.
- Boost better live stock in your community.
- Advertise judiciously.
- Exhibit at the county, state and other live stock shows.
- Remember that a satisfied purchaser is your best advertisement. So be prompt in registering and transferring animals, and make good all guarantees.

BUSINESS OF FEEDING STOCK

Frequent Shifts and Changes Require One Should Be Able to Keep Up With Progression.

The business of feeding livestock is a shifting, changing sort of thing which requires that one should be able to keep up with the progression. If you wish to make the most profit you must use economy in production and in feeding. If you do this, and profit to the greatest extent from the experience of your neighbors and from the experiment stations, your chances of success are good.

CARING FOR PREGNANT SOWS

Animal Should Not Be Fed So Heavily That She Is Too Fat to Take Sufficient Exercise.

Pregnant sows should not be fed so heavily that they become too fat or refuse to take sufficient exercise. The amount fed is as important as the kind of food supplied. A mature sow should eat as much during the breeding and gestation periods as she normally does during the farrowing and suckling periods. On the average this will be from 65 to 85 pounds.

The Victim's Pelt.

For our part, whenever we see a woman with $1,000 worth of fur on we wonder who her husband skinned. —Dallas News.

Or Belong to a Union.

Even women who do not work for a living have a natural yearning to make a striking appearance.—Cartoons Magazine.

Intelligent Apes.

At the foot of Mount Kowang, in North Manchuria, there live strange animals called "far-na-ban-kan." They are larger than ordinary apes and dig spacious caverns in the rocky sides of the hills. During the spring and summer they store up sufficient food for the winter.

Tunis Agricultural State.

The kingdom of Tunis having its northern or Mediterranean limit in the same latitudinal position as the state of North Carolina and like North Carolina, supporting an estimated population of 2,000,000 on an area of about 50,000 square miles, is essentially an agricultural country, deriving its wealth from farm and mine.

Water on the Brain.

To many people it will come as a surprise to learn that our brains contain from 80 to 90 per cent of water, the remaining 10 or 20 per cent being a mass of white and gray matter, to which scientists have given various impressive names. Incidentally it might be mentioned that the average weight of a man's brain is about 45 ounces, and a woman's 43 ounces.

The Milkweed.

The milkweed, a plant that has a much longer name than that, but one which would not be nearly as attractive for us to use is especially well known in America. In the autumn when the pods have opened and there is a brisk breeze the wind carries their seeds far and near. Then the downy seeds are seen flying like tiny airships almost everywhere. In search of a hospitable growing place where they may appear in the spring as tall, slender stalks.

Bath in West Africa.

The Nantu of West Africa makes elaborate preparations for a real soak by digging a hole in the ground, in which he puts seven herbs, a quantity of peppers, curlium seeds and bushes, then he pours in a lot of boiling hot water. After he gets in a light frame covered with clay is put over the hole to keep in the steam. After hours of steaming the bather emerges and is washed off with clean water, then attended by a professional for one hour, when he dons his scanty clothing and goes his way "shivering with cleanliness."

Industry's Advantage.

In the ordinary business of life, industry can do anything which genius can do, and very many things which it cannot.—Beecher.

Mother.

"Love cannot stay at home; a woman cannot keep it to herself; and a mother is always spending it, giving it away to her children."—MacLeod.

Mending China.

Broken china after mending should be allowed to "set" in a box of sawdust. Place in any desired position and its own weight will hold the piece steadily until the cement hardens.

Vaccination's Power.

According to a recent report vaccination is rapidly dying out. Yet there is nothing like vaccination to bring a fellow up to the scratch.—Exchange.

Redeemed Early Failure.

Thomas Chambers, the noted missionary and preacher, was the despair of his school teacher. Another famous preacher Isaac Barrow, was so slow and quibbling that he was counted a disgrace to the school.

Hydrogen and Oxygen Gases.

Oxygen and hydrogen are very different gases; the former helps other substances to burn, but is not itself inflammable, while the latter is inflammable, but does not support the combustion of other materials. For this reason hydrogen gas will not set fire to the oil as oxygen would do, but as it is an inflammable gas it is very dangerous to handle and care should be exercised.

Charles Darwin's Boyhood.

Doctor Butler, the headmaster at Shrewsbury school, had often to call Charles Darwin (the most famous naturalist of the nineteenth century) to task for inattention and laziness during his studies. The only thing that seemed to interest him was the collecting of caterpillars, worms, and all sorts of creeping things, and the risking of his own and his brother's life by dangerous chemical experiments.

Pasteurizing Milk.

The milk in the bottles may be placed in a boiler in which cold water comes up to the necks of the bottles. The boiler is then placed on the stove and heated until the water reaches a temperature of 145 degrees Fahrenheit as determined by the thermometer, where it is maintained for 30 minutes. The bottles are then removed, cooled in running water, and kept sealed until the milk is ready to serve. Pasteurization kills disease-causing germs.

Medicine in Literature.

Jud Tunkin says that half the good a bottle of medicine does him is in the encouragement he gets from reading the literature wrapped around it.

Pots Used to Swell Sound.

The ancient Greeks, to secure resonance without the use of woodwork, placed under the seats of their theaters earthen pots, with the mouths turned toward the stage, the vibrating mass of air in these serving to reinforce the sound.

Music in Church.

For almost a thousand years Gregorian chant, without any instrumental or harmonic addition, was the only music used in connection with the liturgy of the church. The organ in its primitive and rude form was the first instrument to be introduced into church, and for a long time was the sole instrument to accompany the chant.

Reasons for Using Stone.

The forest rangers on Mount Rainier have a house on top of the mountain built of stone, whereas under usual conditions it is the custom to construct these buildings of wood. The proximity of the stone and the scarcity of wood and the difficulty of obtaining it from the lower levels is responsible for this departure.

Not Strong on Ablution.

The Aini feels that by washing his face and hands on great occasions he has paid his debt to civilization. The Tibetan considers that the oil of the body contributes needed warmth in his mountain life and refuses to wash it away, but does not object to washing his face and the tips of his fingers once in awhile.

Surprised Mother.

The missionary society was meeting at our house and the woman who was to lead the devotionals took the elastic band from her Bible, laid it on her lap and began to turn the pages to find the passage she was to read. During the solemn silence my young son marched over to her and, picking up the elastic, he announced: "Why, that's my mother's garter!"—Orin.

Feeding the Bedridden.

Administering liquid food or medicine to persons lying on their backs in bed is difficult, even for a trained nurse. A novel hospital drinking glass overcomes this difficulty, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The lower portion of the vessel is similar in shape to an ordinary tumbler. On top of this is a tapering hood which is provided with an eccentrically placed, shutting opening. It not more than half filled the device can be held in a nearly horizontal position without spilling the contents.

THE FAMOUS R. C. NUNNELLEY FARM OF

182 ACRES

(Subdivided) NOW BELONGING TO H. F. MARTIN

—AT—

PUBLIC AUCTION
ON THE PREMISES

Wednesday, May 26

AT TEN A. M.

This splendid farm is located right on, the famous Hanging Fork about five miles from Stanford and L & N. Railroads and within stone's throw of the noted Peyton's Well. In the best section of Lincoln County. Every one knows what Hanging Fork land is. No better hemp and tobacco land anywhere. All of this farm in grass except 13 acres to go in tobacco this year. About 30 acres in oats sown to clover and timothy. In the highest state of cultivation, ready to Punch and make big returns.

Mr. Martin is now located on a large farm that he owns and is unable to look after both of them. He has instructed us to put this one under the HAMMER for what it will bring. An ABSOLUTE sale. YOU name the price and we merely suggest the terms, etc.

The improvements consist of an elegant two story, seven room residence with halls, veranda, two large back porches, good cellar, tenant house of four rooms, extra large 14 acre tobacco barn 64X100, stock barn and all necessary outbuildings.

Cistern at house, numerous springs, ponds, Hanging Fork, etc. Good fencing. Fine orchard just beginning to bear.

This farm is a GEM. It is seldom you have an opportunity to buy a piece of dirt like this with A-1 improvements that today could not be built for $15,000.00, in splendid neighborhood, etc. Give this place a look before sale day for it will bear closest inspection. The more you look the more you will bid. An ideal home, safe investment and a money maker.

Remember the day and hour, WEDNESDAY, MAY 26th, at 10 A. M. Be on hands promptly. TERMS very liberal and made known on day of sale. For full particulars, blue prints, etc., see, write or phone

SEEKING ANOTHER PLUNGE.

Is civilization in reality on the decline?

Is humanity gradually sinking to the level of the savage?

The rivers of blood have hardly dried upon the battlefields of France, and yet the nations of the earth are steadily preparing for the next war.

Powerful air fleets are being constructed, engines of destruction capable of dropping tons of high explosives upon armies and civilians alike.

The U-boat is being perfected to outdo its previous exploits in sending ship loads of helpless people to the bottom of the sea without warning and with no avenue of escape.

Almost everywhere we turn we find the brightest minds and the keenest intellects concentrated upon the construction of machines for the destruction of human life.

Such a condition immediately following the great war is unthinkable, it is appalling, and yet it is true.

The world entertained hopes that the war just closed would be the last. But that hope is becoming blasted day by day.

One has only to read the foreign news dispatches to see the handwriting on the wall—letters written in the blood of humanity and inscribed by the hands of hatred, avarice and greed.

Civilization should be civilized. It is slipping a cog.

THE OTHER FELLOW'S SISTER.

People are often heard to make suggestive remarks concerning young women whom they see on the streets—but never when a husky male relative is present.

Generally there is no thought of including the innocent object of these remarks. They are born in thoughtlessness and uttered in a spirit of idleness, but they carry a sting that lasts.

If men would confine their remarks to such as they would approve if made regarding their own sisters, or such as they would make in the presence of the father or brother of the girl, there would be less vicious rumors and innuendoes circulating from lip to lip, and fewer heartaches when this idle gossip reaches the parties concerned.

The Lord made tongues that they might be used to good purpose, but the devil often twists them to his own evil ways.

And it makes a world of difference when it is the other fellow's sister.

THE GOOD AND THE BAD.

If we remember the good things of life existence will be the sweeter for us and for those around us.

We are too prone to forget the good and dwell upon the seamy side of humanity. It diverts our thoughts from the uplift and plunges us into a gloom that is enhanced by our discontent.

In our own restricted community there is much that is good—there are people whose acts serve as an inspiration to all who would see the brighter side of life.

They are unobtrusive, but their influence is beneficial to all with whom they come in contact.

They see the sordid side of our existence, but they do not dwell upon it. They see the brightness of the future, and they make it a part of their daily lives.

They radiate happiness and contentment wherever they go.

And because they see the better side of all people and all things, the sweetness of their own lives is seen by us.

It is good to remember that those who think well of the world invariably find that the world thinks well of them.

The sun shines brightly in the lives of all who give it an opportunity to enter.

"It is useless to forbid inbreeds when the deacons make large church contributions out of excess profits wrung jointly from labor and the ultimate consumer."

That statement was made by Vice President Marshall at a recent church mass meeting, and in those few words lies one of the secrets of the waning power of the church, and of the rise of wickedness and selfishness in this land of ours.

Men can not praise the Lord on Sunday and serve the devil on Monday and still retain the respect of his fellow men.

The man who is reasonably decent but makes no pretension to Christianity can be respected for just what he is, for his very honesty in admitting his imperfections is a commendable trait.

But the one who wears the cloak of the Lord to hide the work of the devil is deserving of just what he receives—the contempt of all people who know him as he is.

There are good deacons and there are bad ones. The good ones do much toward the elevation of the human race. The bad ones besmirch the whole church with their own mire.

Divorces in this country are becoming about as numerous as fleas in a crowded dog kennel in summer time. There are many causes which lead to this scrambled condition of some of our American homes.

Many people rush into matrimony without a sufficient knowledge of the inner characteristics of each other.

There is a tendency in modern humanity to throw off the restraints practiced by our ancestors, and people are becoming more independent than heretofore.

In addition the lawyers are very shrewd and the courts are often quite accommodating, with the result that as soon as a couple begin to disagree their first thought is of a divorce.

There are conditions under which it is easy to concede that one person can hardly continue to live with another and still retain his or her self respect, but these exceptional cases form the basis of only a small percentage of our divorces.

American morality is in the balance, and the scales are exceedingly fickle.

There has been an average increase of 100 per cent in the cost of living in this country since December 1914, and the cost of much of the material used in the production of a newspaper has advanced as much as 200 and 300 per cent. But there has NOT been an increase of 100 per cent in the price of this paper or in the cost of anything this office produces. No profiteering in this shop, thank you.

Carranza need not worry—he has a legitimate claim upon a place in history. He has held the Mexican presidency for more than twenty-four hours without being humped off or kicked out.

Most men have a grievance against one thing or another. But some, unable to find anything in particular, compromise by making it general. Hence the village grouch.

Want something for nothing in these days of nothing for something? Take a lung full of fresh air and be happy.

Life holds many things besides hard work and profits, but is too short for some people to find them.

Speak gently of others and they will seldom speak harshly of you.

And the price of sugar today? All you can get, of course.

SUTHIN' FOR NUTHIN' It Just Can't Be Got.

You have seen thousands of people try to get something for nothing but you have noticed that mighty few get away with it.

Even in old days when the "free" lunch was spread on the end of every bar, there was an iron bound rule that provided "Drink first; eat afterwards." If any lad's lunch hooks crept too near the bolongas and the pretzels before he had clinched a nickel on the bar for a tub of the brew, the bouncer took the swinging doors for a couple of goal posts and knocked him for a goal. You had to have the nickel before you could get a free lunch for nothing.

July 1, 1919 did not change that rule a particle. You have to have money before you can take advantage of opportunities to get a chance to dip into the succulent financial profits spread temptingly before you. There is only one way to have money. That is to save it. This is a day of labor saving machinery and the machinery for saving money has been developed just as effectively as the machine to save labor.

The best machine of that kind is the one provided by the Savings Division of the Treasury Department. Its use of Liberty Bonds which are safe and profitable, Government Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates, you can save money and keep it safe and ready with the least possible discomfort and effort to yourself.

CALL OF THE WILD

By ETHEL W. FARMER.

The rapid whirling of the sewing machine stopped suddenly, and Eloise turned sharply around in her chair and faced her sister squarely.

"Are you nearly finished?" she asked with assumed gaiety.

"Oh, no," Virginia answered sleepily, carefully scrutinizing the beautiful piece of embroidery in her lap.

"Why don't you leave it for a little while?" Eloise teased.

"Oh, I could not possibly do that," came the determined answer.

With a final, wistful glance out of the window at the wonderful snow-covered world, the stitcher's sigh mingled with the renewed buzzing of the exasperating machine. But it did not buzz for long, for she soon threw her work aside and jumped to her feet with a laugh.

"Come, now, sis, why not don our beloved snowshoes and strike off for the woods? Let us seek some thrilling romance in the cold, open country! I just know that romance is only waiting for us. Perhaps some daring hero will be waiting to rescue us from some wild animal in the heart of the woods!"

"Romance?" Virginia spoke in disgust. "That word was not meant for me! And who ever heard of wild animals in our woods? Eloise, please be sensible and let me work."

"Very well, fair sister," Eloise spoke lightly, "but I must be off for I hear the urging call of the wild," and she ran happily from the room.

Soon she returned, becomingly clad in her sport costume, with snowshoes tucked under her arm. The bright red cap matched the flushed cheeks and laughingly antiquated the bright sparkle in the fair blue eyes.

"I am only answering the call of the wild," she laughed softly, "and seeking my lost romance," and the front door banged.

Then Virginia was sorry that she had so insistently refused the invitation for the hike, for her work was already becoming tiresome. She watched her enthusiastic sister strap on her snowshoes and start gracefully along, stopping only long enough to wave a bright mittened hand at her. "I shall go into the woods," she thought.

It was not long before the open highway was passed and the dusky woods lay before her. With a deep sigh of contentment, she passed into their majestic quietness. But as she wandered along her joyful spirit began to lower and her thoughts wandered back to other days. She was thinking of the many happy times passed in these woods with Tom.

Some tiny tracks in the snow attracted her attention.

"Why not follow this rabbit trail?" she asked herself lightly.

Eloise wiped the perspiration from her forehead and smiled at her apparently endless undertaking, mentally resolving to go to the end. She did not notice how rapidly the woods were getting dark, and that only the tip of the sun could be seen below the trees. She was thinking only of following the trail. Finally her search was rewarded, for her tracks ended at the stump of a tree.

She leaned against the tree to rest herself. There was suddenly a rustling in the underbrush. She stood terrified and wondered if perchance there were any wild animals there!

The crunching sound came nearer, and Eloise could stand it no longer! With a frantic cry she started to run, forgetting that her feet were encased in large snowshoes. Somehow the snowshoes became tangled in some half-concealed branches and, with another cry, she fell headlong into a bank of snow. She did not dare to move, for the sound was coming rapidly toward her. It was upon her! If it were a bear, it would think that she were dead, but she trembled at the thought.

"Can't you get up?" somebody was asking pleasantly in her ear.

It was fully a minute before she could extricate herself from the snow enough to see if the owner of the voice were truly Tom. And his surprise was even greater when he found out who this Marathon snowshoe runner really was.

"Why, Tom!" she gasped weakly.

"Why, Eloise!" he echoed happily.

For a moment they eyed each other silently, and then they laughed.

"Why did you run?" he asked, good-naturedly.

"I heard a rustle in the bushes," she answered, sheepishly. "Listen, there it is again!"

Tom listened, and as he rose to his feet with an impromptu club in his hand the gentle face of a cow peered at them through the branches.

"Oh," they gasped in one breath, and then the quiet woods rang with laughter.

"Well," Tom laughed contentedly, "I have found my cow and you. I know that I have been a brute, and I am sorry, but I was too ashamed to explain before. You see, I wrote two important letters to you, and when you did not answer, I thought you did not care. But a few days ago I found my letters in your forgetful brother's pocket, unopened! Now can't we fix it all right?"

She did not speak her answer, but when she threw her arms around her sister's neck a little later, she was happy.

Grant was much commended upon his efficiency from those "higher up."

News came to Lancaster friends of the death of William Thompson
Price, 73 years old, well known playwright, who died in New York of heart trouble. Mr. Price was born in Kentucky and was in early life a newspaper man, receiving his training under Henry Watterson. For twenty years he conducted a school of playwriting, which he founded. In his early connection with the drama
Mr. Price was play-reader for A. M.
Palmyer and Harrison Grey Fisk and also acted as literary adviser to Richard Mansfield. He was the author of the first play produced by Merc Klaw, starring Effie Ellsler, and staged in the eighties. Mr. Price was a step-brother of Mrs. E. L. Owsley, of this city.

STORM BOUND

By LOUISE HOFFMAN.

"Gee! the wind's blowing 60 miles an hour and everything will be drifted off by morning," prophesied John Becklin as he came stamping into the kitchen after feeding the hens. "I thought I'd be blown away once or twice myself. I pity any one caught out in this storm tonight. Heavens! the 4:20 go up yet, mother?"

Mrs. Becklin, a remarkably trim, young looking woman to be the mother of such a stalwart looking son, was busy setting the table and alternately stirring creamed potatoes on the stove.

"No, John, I haven't heard a sound," she replied in a motherly tone. "But I thought I saw a sleigh with two come around the bend in the road a while ago. I've been watching every little while, but I haven't seen anything more of it."

She went to the window again. It was just dusk.

"Oh, John!" she exclaimed. "There is some one trying to get through the drifts by the old barn. There, the horse is down."

John Becklin came to the window and peered out into the fast deepening gloom.

"Why, it looks as though there was a woman in the sleigh. Two but they've been caught out in this. But the drifts are soft yet, and maybe they'll pull through. I wonder who they are? They must be strangers, or they wouldn't attempt to drive through that spot."

"Well, the horse is up," announced Mrs. Becklin with relief, "but they are trying to make him go ahead. The next plunge and the poor animal will only go down again. Even if they do manage to get through this bank, they can't go on in this blow. It would be sure death, with night coming on, and it's growing colder every minute. Oh!" she gasped, "there goes the sleigh over. Mercy! I hope that poor woman isn't hurt."

She turned.

"Where are you going, John?" she questioned as he began putting on his things.

"I'm going to take down the bars so that man can come through the field. He was gone, and the mother watched with keen anxiety as he battled against the fierce wind and whirling snow. Once he turned his back to catch his breath. Twice he sank out of sight, but finally succeeded in reaching the two weary travelers.

John directed the strangers through the perilous drifts into the open field and up to their barn, where the hired man took charge of the almost exhausted animal.

Mrs. Becklin ran to the kitchen door and threw it as hospitably wide as the storm would allow to welcome the strangers.

"Come in, come in out of this wind," she invited cheerfully. "You must be nearly frozen."

"Fortunately we both escaped, but such an experience!" returned a sweet young voice, as the man, divested of his furs, came into the living room.

"Myra," he gasped, gazing straight into her clear gray middle-aged eyes. "Is it possible?"

"Wilbur," breathed Mrs. Becklin, scarcely believing her eyes. "I thought you were in the West. And this," she paused gazing at the pretty blue-eyed girl.

"Is my daughter, Una," he said briefly. "And this lad to whom we are indebted for our escape is—"

"My son," returned Myra.

After a moment's silence, "If it were not for the children, we might think time had almost stood still," he murmured.

Over delectable creamed potatoes, sliced pink ham, hot rolls and coffee, Wilbur Norcross told how the urge to come East had been too strong for him. In the fall he had bought a small farm at Fallsburgh. His sister kept house while Una taught school in the old Everett district about five miles distant.

Myra nodded. She had heard about a Norcross family moving into the village.

As the weather looked promising and as it was Friday night he had started out to drive Una home.

For three days the travelers were storm-bound in the mountains. It was impossible to shovel out roads until the wind abated. During this time a friendship and intimacy sprang up, which ripened into something warmer, and when the storm had ceased and the roads were open, Myra and Wilbur told the children the same old ever new story. Years ago they had quarreled because Myra refused to live in the country.

"Such a silly thing," laughed Myra happily, "because I live on a farm now and love it, even to being storm-bound and cut off from civilization."

"We'll make it a delightful blinding for life," added Wilbur.

John looked at Una.

"I guess we have something to confess, too. It's a pretty short courtship but—but Cupid has been flinging his darts around so lively he has struck us squarely, too."

"The second edition, bound for life," murmured Wilbur. Then with boyish enthusiasm: "Let's make it a double wedding."

And so it happened that in a few short weeks the neighbors nodded their heads and joyously announced, "Spring's coming. The young will marry, but the old—well—they may, sure sign."

Buena Vista

School News.

Sunday, May 16th, the Incecalaurate services for the Buena Vista High School will be held at the Mt. Olivet Church at 11 A. M. Dr. John Paul of Wilmore will deliver the sermon, with Rev. Young of Nicholasville assisting. Every one is cordially invited.

A program in charge of Mrs. Abner presented by all the grades will be given at the High School Building, Monday evening May 17th, at 8:00 P. M. The proceeds will be for defraying the expenses of the graduating class. We cordially invite all parents and friends to attend. We assure you an evening of pleasure.

The Commencement Exercises will be held at the High School Building Tuesday evening May 18th. The speaker, Dr. E. C. McEloughe is one of the best known men not only in Kentucky, but other states as well, having taken his P. H. D. from Clark University, Mass. Parents and friends of the graduates and all friends of the school are cordially invited to attend. This concludes our program for the year and through the RECORD we wish to express our gratitude to all who have so faithfully and loyally befriended the school this year.

A Learned Capital.

Aarau, capital of the Swiss canton of Argovia, possesses one of the hardest working libraries in the world. Though the library consists of only 60,000 volumes—which is not so large as public institutions go in the United States—the population of the capital itself is only 10,000. With eight volumes per inhabitant, the library of Aarau has just cause to boast of itself as a miniature Athens.

Birds That Speak.

Havens, crows and magpies are all better speakers than parrots. They are not so versatile and the sounds they utter are less varied, but their voices and articulation are far more human. A crow's talk in the room may easily be mistaken for that of a person. Parrots are the best listeners; that is to say, they mimic whistling and other noises, particularly laughing, to admiration. It has been remarked that their voices in speaking are like that of a clever person.

Shellac.

Shellac is the joint product of insects and plants and comes from India. The lac insects are about 1.25 of an inch long, a bright red in color. They suck the juices of plants digest them and exude them in the form of resin, which soon encases the whole insect. When the young insects have swarmed out the resin is scraped from the branches, ground, washed with colophony and ordment, cooked slowly and drawn out into the thin sheets we know as shellac.

Memoranda in Glass.

A reader tells us that with the use of gum tragacanth, allowing a week for drying, two sheets of glass can be joined with a sheet of paper between them, without the slightest staining of the paper. It is suggested that this provides a new and useful means of making paper weights and other glass articles with calendars, etc., imbedded in them. The gum, while still wet, appears to have stained the paper; but every trace of this disappears as the drying out proceeds.—Scientific American.

The Name Taffy.

The name Taffy is a nickname for the whole Welsh people. The word is simply Davy (David), pronounced with aspiration; Sawney (Alexander) the most common Scotch name; Pat (Patrick) the most common Irish name; and John (John Bull) the most common English name. Each is used to designate the race or nationality to which it belongs. A similar case is that of Brother Jonathan, once commonly used to designate the people of the United States, but now largely superseded by Uncle Sam.

PUBLIC SALE

Of Two Splendid Farms

We will offer for sale to the highest and best bidders the farm of
ELLIOTT AND ELLIOTT

Thursday, May 20th

AT TEN A. M., RAIN OR SHINE.

This farm contains 140 Acres of Blue Grass land, and is just over the Boyle county line in Lincoln county, on Lovers Lane pike, 5 miles from Danville. It has now 70 acres of very fine growing wheat; 8 acres for tobacco; new sod land; 20 acres for corn; balance in grass. This farm is well improved, and has a comfortable dwelling of 7 rooms; eight acre tobacco barn; good stock barn, and all necessary outbuildings. There is also a good tenant house. The farm is well watered and well fenced. There are four never failing springs and a good cistern at the door. We can give immediate possession. This farm will be sold for the high dollar. It is a money making farm and will be sold at a bargain.

Terms liberal and will be made known on day of sale.

Parties desiring to look the place over will be shown over it by Elliott and Elliott or I. M. Dunn & Co., Real Estate Brokers, Danville, Ky. Call Phone 529, Danville, Ky., if you are interested.

I. M. DUNN & COMPANY

REAL ESTATE BROKERS AND AUCTIONEERS. DANVILLE, KY.

This firm will also offer two other big farms on June 2nd, 1200 acres, and June 10th, 600 acres. A more extended advertisement of these two farms will appear later.

We will also sell at Public Auction on Tuesday, May 25th,

AT TEN A. M., RAIN OR SHINE

156 ACRES OF FINE BLUE GRASS LAND

Located in Garrard county, adjoining the famous Jones L. Adams farm, now owned by David F. Rankin, belonging to the Fox heirs. The improvements on this farm consist of one dwelling house; one 12 acre tobacco barn; one stock barn, and other out buildings. This farm will afford a man of limited means a fine opportunity to purchase a splendid home where he can make money. This will be an absolute sale, the reason being to divide the money between the heirs. Twelve acres for tobacco; 20 acres for corn, the remainder in wheat and grass.

Parties desiring to look this place over can call on Jasper Daly, who is now on the farm, or I. M. Dunn & Co., Real Estate Brokers and Auctioneer. Phone 529 Danville, Ky.

At this sale we will sell LIVE STOCK, IMPLEMENTS and everything. Terms liberal and will be made known on day of sale.

Selfishness Gains Nothing.

Men should see life as more than a means of personal advancement. Selfishness may achieve, but its inglorious name will soon be forgotten in the round of yesterday. It's life that lives for the common good that lays tribute on humanity and carries an illustrious name in the very foundations of history. Call it Utopian if you will. Facts show that men must die to really live. And men who give themselves to human betterment live as they raise others from unreasonable drudgery to honorable toil and common comfort.

NINA.

Farmers are all getting along nicely now, some are thru planting corn. We are all glad to note that our friend, Mr. Willie Prewitt is getting along fine, from an attack of typhoid fever.

MARKSBURY

Mr. Forrest Curtis has been quite sick but is able to be out again.

Mrs. Day of Somerset is spending several days with her sister, Mrs. Ryle Isom.

Mr. R. S. Clark has returned from Lexington where he has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Margaret Clark.

Another day has been added to the program and the Institute will begin the 27 of May, lasting thru the 30th.

Mr. Poynter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Simpson of Lancaster were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Hanks Sunday.

Rev. Skagg received a purse given to him Sunday morning by the church to send him to the S. B. C. which meets in Washington D. C. very soon.

Farm work has been deferred on account of the cold rainy season. The gardens are late, but the farmers are using every possible opportunity to prepare the soil for planting.

Miss Josephine Huffman will carry out a program Saturday afternoon in honor of finishing her grade. She will be assisted by Misses Doolin, Stella Doty, Mae Belle Sutton and Della Turner.

Mrs. Charles Dunn and Mrs. R. I. Hurton were appointed by the pastor to raise funds with which to procure a suitable piano for the church. This hustling committee no doubt will soon raise the amount needed.

I do not remember exactly what I said in regard to the dinner on the ground, as I overlooked my letter in the Record, but judging from the "correction" in copy of May 6th, I must have left an "awful impression", which I did not mean to do. In justice to the ladies who said they would "cut out sweets" (this part of the letter was no error) an agreement was just made among those present and had they had no idea of dictating to the church. The above ladies mentioned are not facing an "Armenian situation" and are willing to do their part of furnishing an ample supply and give all the guests a hearty welcome who attend the Institute.

Cracks at Creation.

Yes, it will pay you to push this town along. It will take you with it.

Politics and religion, they say, won't mix. And we should hope not.

"War is a state of mind," says an exchange. Sort of a hell of state, eh?

Beware of the company whose only oil is on the tongues of its salesmen.

In the old days a poor appetite was a cause for complaint. Now it is one for thanks.

Some people live for themselves alone, and the world is generally glad to leave them alone.

No, do not bring us a spud on subscription. It might strain our bank account to make change.

There are so many funny writers in the press now-a-days their stuff is becoming anything but funny.

This is consoling, very consoling. Cable advices tell us that food prices over in Japan are coming down.

Our principal criticism of our monetary system is the fact that we haven't been able to get our share.

Hiding their lights under a bushel is a favorite occupation with some people. But it's rough on the bushel.

Do you want your child to be successful? If so, you must teach him to save. A Thrift Stamp will start him right.

This country is producing one glorious crop of "favorite sons." We are fortunate, however, in not having the locusts at the same time.

Sure, this world is full of wit and humor. But the trouble is most of us are unable to tell which is wit and which is humor.

When in doubt forget your doubts. Go ahead and do it. It's better to be wrong once in awhile than to be nothing all of the time.

The weather man, we note, never kicks at the roasts he gets in the press. It's an inexpensive method of keeping in the public eye.

Our office devil has delivered himself of another chunk of witless wisdom. He says the way to reduce the high cost of living is to quit living at a high cost.

Some people are so public spirited they want a dollar's worth of advertising for every nickel they spend in building up this town. They get it—and realize it when too late.

Of the average 100 men more than half are dependents at 65 years of age. Don't let your children become dependents. Start them out with the Thrift Stamp habit and they will tread the road to success.

It depends altogether upon the size of the pocketbook. If she is rich, she is "temperamental"; if she is comfortably well off, she is "afflicted with nerves," while if she is poor in this world's goods, she is just an ordinary "scold."

Experience is a great school master. Take heed from the down-and-outer who has paid dearly for his experience, and resolve you won't go to the same school. War Savings Stamps will make you an up-and-getter.

CURED AND SMOKED MUTTON GIVES TABLE VARIETY—IS ONE OF CHEAPEST OF MEATS

Curing Mutton Given a Product Similar to Ham.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If you live in the country and your family likes mutton but is inclined to grow tired of it before a whole carcass can be utilized, why not cure and smoke the legs and shoulders? Many farmers hesitate to kill a sheep or lamb because the family tires of it, or a part of the meat spoils before the entire carcass is consumed.

By curing and smoking a part of the carcass may be used as fresh meat and the remainder used at a later date.

Farm-killed lamb or mutton is usually one of the cheapest and at the same time one of the most wholesome of meats, but it has never been served so extensively on the country table as in the city. One reason for this, doubtless, has been lack of knowledge of how to preserve, when cold-storage facilities are unobtainable, the mutton which could not be eaten fresh before it spoiled.

Cure Shoulders and Legs.

The farmer who slaughters two hams or mature sheep in place of one of the hogs that he usually butchers at home, and who cures the shoulders and legs, can provide the family table with meat variety at little cost and trouble.

Lamb or mutton is as easily cured and smoked as is pork and produces a product similar to ham, according to specialists in the United States department of agriculture, who have been conducting experiments in the curing and smoking of these meats. The cured meat can be cooked in any or all of the ways that cured pork shoulders and hams are cooked, and adds variety to the farm table.

The first essential thing in curing is to make sure the meat is thoroughly cooled. Meat should never be frozen, either prior to or during the period of curing. The proper time to begin curing is when the meat is thoroughly cooled and still fresh. Twenty-four to thirty-six hours after killing is the opportune time.

Brine-Cured Meat.

Many different formulas may be used for curing mutton by the brine method, but the recipe given below, if followed closely, will give good results.

For each 100 pounds of meat use:
7 pounds salt 3 ounces saltpeter
3 1/2 pounds sugar or 1/4 gallons water syrup

Allow three days' cure for each pound in a leg or shoulder; also three days for small pieces. For example, a 10-pound leg will take 30 days. The brine should be made the day before it is used, so that it will be cool. All the ingredients are poured into the water and boiled until thoroughly mixed. Place the legs on the bottom of the container, shoulders next; the small cuts should be on top. Be sure to weight down with a stone or brick. Iron should not be used, as it will rust. Pour in the brine, and be sure it covers the meat thoroughly. In one week pour off the brine and change the meat, placing the top meat on the bottom and bottom meat on top, then pour back the brine. Repeat this operation at weekly intervals. If the pickle becomes rosy, take out all the meat and wash it and the container thoroughly. Boil the rosy pickle—or, better, make new pickle. If the old pickle is boiled, it should be strained before boiling.

When each piece of meat has received the proper cure take it out of the pickle, string, and hang in the smokehouse. The temperature of the smokehouse should not exceed 125 degrees F. Smoke the meat until it has a good chestnut color.

It has been found more convenient in preparing meats in this manner to brine-cure the light pieces and dry-cure all the larger pieces. The reason for this is that the smaller pieces will shrink considerably, and, if dry-cured, leave only a comparatively small portion of meat.

Dry-Cured Meat.

Dry-cured meat is better for future use than the brine-cured and means less work. Danger from rats and other vermin is less in the case of brine-cured meat. Both methods of curing will be successful if care is taken to see that each operation is properly executed. Following is the method of dry-curing.

For each 100 pounds of meat, use:
7 pounds salt 2 ounces saltpeter
3 pounds of sugar 3 ounces red pepper or syrup 3 ounces black pepper

Mix all ingredients thoroughly, then rub the mixture over the meat well and pack it away in a box or on a table. Allow one and one-half days' cure for each pound the pieces of meat average. After the meat has cured, hang it in the smokehouse.

You can start dollars multiplying in $5 groups by obtaining Government Savings Stamps—or in $100 or $1,000 groups by investing in Treasury Savings Certificates.

Complain about the high cost of living, if you want to; but don't take it all out in complaining. Refuse to buy unreasonably priced goods and you will be helping to bring old H. C. L. down to sea level.

USE CARAMEL IN FLAVORING

It May Be Used Successfully in Custards, Ice Creams and Many Other Table Dishes.

Flavorings, like most other groceries, have advanced in price. A home-made flavoring which is not new but which is cheap and always delicious is caramel. Its more frequent use is recommended by the United States department of agriculture kitchen to those who wish to economize. It may be used successfully in custards, ice creams, and many other desserts.

To make caramel flavoring, place one cupful of sugar in an iron saucepan. Heat it until well browned, stirring constantly even after the dish has been taken from the fire and until the danger of burning is past. Before the mixture hardens add one-fourth cupful of hot water and cook the mixture until it is about the consistency of thick sirup. Bottle and save for use when needed.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Do not allow silver to stand unwashed overnight.

Corn, tomatoes and rice make a good stuffing for peppers.

A few vanilla beans kept in the sugar box imparts a delicious flavor to sugar.

By adding a tiny pinch of salt to milk when fresh it will keep a much longer time.

DO NOT WASTE FUEL IN PREPARING FOOD

Best to Select Those Requiring Long, Slow Cooking.

Various Vegetables and Meats Can Be Baked in Oven and Cereals Can Be Cooked in Double Boiler on Top of Stove.

When a slow fire is needed all day to heat a kitchen, select foods that require long, slow cooking. Beans, peas, and roasts can be baked in the oven and cereals can be cooked in a double boiler on the top of the stove.

In broiling over a coal or wood fire put the broiler through the door over the fire box instead of taking off the lids and cooling the fire.

Use double broilers, steamers, and compartment vessels which fit over one burner on a gas or oil stove.

Eggs or small vegetables may be cooked in the bottom part of the boiler while cereals are cooked in the upper part, according to U. S. department of agriculture specialists.

A colander or wire basket fitted over a saucepan makes a good steamer. Vegetables, such as carrots, may be steamed in the colander while potatoes are boiled in the saucepan.

For slow cooking on a gas stove use a simmering burner. When soups and foods require long cooking, but keep well, cook them in large quantities.

Turn out the gas when it is not needed. Matches are cheaper than gas.

Turn the flame down after the boiling point is reached. Water boiling fast is no better than water boiling slowly.

Just received car of lime.

Lives Up to the Symptom.
"You can nearly always tell a man who is suffering from this 'unrest,'" said Jim Jenkins, "by the way he manages to put in more time resting than anyone else in the neighborhood."

Fraternal Friendship.
A curate of a very nervous temperament was constantly making awkward remarks intended as compliments. Having distinguished himself in an unusual degree during a gathering of clergy at the bishops' palace, he was taken to task for his failings by a senior curate who was one of his companions on the way home. "Look here!" said the senior curate. "You are a donkey! Why cannot you keep quiet instead of making your asinine remarks? Mind you, I am speaking to you now as a brother!"

Idea Born of Self-Deception.
It's a common thing for "canned" folks to get a deluded idea of the esteem in which they are held. They would have you class them among the martyrs and start prosecution to have them restored to their homes. What ho! it all is. You may find some tiny minds that get swamped of your bluff and count it real. There are, too, some who seem not to have the power to give folks just rating. They discount worth on the one hand and toady to weakness on the other. But that's only occasional. In most instances it's only the weaknesses that are deceived.

Not Nowadays.
Ladies of quality originally wore masks either to protect their complexions or out of modesty to prevent them from being recognized while out of doors.

Early Basket Makers.
The ancient basket makers of Great Britain were famous basket makers and their wares were costly acquisitions in the palaces of Italy. They manufactured woven baskets and covered them with the skins of wild animals; their tools were made of oakwork made of oaks and their wares' shields were constructed of reeds in a marvelous and vicious manner.

Daughter's Comeback.
Mother—"Shame on you, Dorothy! The idea of letting a boy whom you've known only a week kiss you! Why, when I was your age a girl was considered vulgar who would let a boy even hold her hand until he'd known her several months." Daughter (innocently)—"And didn't you say, once, mother, that it used to take you two weeks to go from New York to Chicago?"—Yale Record.

A Love Story in Japan.
What would the American reader think, having been brought by the author to that place where the hero's voice becomes soft and the heroine blushes and lowers her eyes, to see a row of asterisks indicating a footnote, which says: "At this point he asked her to marry him." That is what the Japanese have done in the love scene in "John Halifax, Gentleman," so that it might accord with their peculiar sense of delicacy.—World Outlook.

HON. RICHARD P. ERNST.

Covington, Kentucky, May 10th, 1920.

For some time past it has been known to many of my Republican friends throughout the State that I would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

I now desire to make public announcement of the fact.

I keenly appreciate the responsibility and importance of this high position, and, in the event of my election, I will give to the duties of this office the best there is in me and will represent the people of Kentucky and of the United States to the best of my ability.

I desire, also, to take advantage of this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to the many Republicans throughout the State who have, without solicitation on my part, so kindly and generously offered me their support.

AMERICAN DOLLAR No Cheaper Now Than Formerly.

Prices Of Commodities Change Frequently But The Dollar Is Inflexible Unit.

In the Bureau of Standards at Washington is a steel rod, exactly three feet long graduated into minute and accurate divisions. It is kept in an equable temperature and thoroughly protected against change and distortion. It is the official standard of measurement for length of the United States and it does not change or fluctuate.

It is as long and no longer than when it was prepared and it will remain the same a hundred years from now. The materials which are measured against this standard may lengthen or shorten but the standard remains the same.

The dollar is the official measure of value of the United States. It also is guarded against deterioration or change by the whole strength and volume of resources of this great nation. The prices it measures may expand or contract but the standard of value, the dollar, remains unaffected.

There is no such thing as a cheap American dollar, or dear American dollar, just as there is no short foot and no long foot. A piece of India rubber may be made to stretch longer than a foot or contract shorter than a foot but the foot remains the same. Prices may expand through failure of demand to meet supply or through profiteering and they may contract through excess of supply over demand but the value of the dollar remains unaltered.

It is as futile to change your conception of value of the dollar to meet expansion or contraction of prices as it is to change your standard of measure to conform with the stretching or relaxing of the material measured.

In either case there is but one safe procedure, to cut your purchases to conform with the standard of the dollar and to cut your material to conform to the standard of the exact foot.

That procedure can only be followed by one method—in the case of the dollar—by working and saving. If prices exceed the measure called for by the standard of value of the dollar, the purchase must be correspondingly cut so that when contraction through increased work and production occurs, the resultant opportunity may be seized.

The safest way in which your standard of value can be kept intact and preserved from deterioration or disintegration is by regular consistent saving and investment in government securities, Government Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates.

The banks in many cities have adopted the Government plan of selling Treasury Savings Certificates on the installment plan. In cities where the banks have failed to cooperate with the Treasury Department to this extent, those wanting such securities may obtain full information by addressing the Savings Division, Treasury Department, at 210 North Broadway, St. Louis.

A Fundamental Difference.

The latest thing in political analysis—the man who sees no longer any difference between a Democrat and a Republican has to look no further than the House of Representatives at Washington to find an issue that has been fundamental between the two parties since the day of their birth.

A bill, providing a bonus of something like $2,000,000,000 for soldiers who served in the late war is to be passed, and the House is just now wrestling with the problem of where to get the money to meet the appropriation.

The Republicans propose that it shall be raised principally by a tax of one-half to one per cent (the exact figure yet to be determined) up on all sales made in this country for the next year. The tax would, of course, be added to the cost of the article, and would fall upon that oppressed and long suffering individual, the ultimate consumer, who usually bears the burden of taxation.

The Democrats are contending that the revenue shall be derived by a tax on war profits, and not individual sales. They believe that those who were made rich out of the war should furnish the money to pay for the sacrifices of those who served in the war. They point to the fact that the war created 23,000 new millionaires in the country, and it is these men, not the common people, who should bear the burden of this new taxation.

This is the issue, stated briefly, which is now joined in the House of Representatives at Washington. It is but the repetition of the age old fight between Democracy and Republicanism. Democracy, the party of the masses, believes in taxing the classes. Republicanism, the party of the classes, stands for taxation of the masses.

The voters of Kentucky would do well to watch the outcome of the fight in the House, and see for themselves how the representatives of the two parties line up on it.

The Democratic party has no desire to persecute legitimate business, but it believes that the man who grew rich out of the war should pay its cost, and that it should not fall upon the great masses of our population.

The days of carpet-begging with all the sectional feeling which it engendered have passed, but we find the administration of Governor Morrow in Kentucky fully emulating the example of his political ancestors of the period of the Civil War. It is significant that many of the most important positions of trust which have been filled by Governor Morrow have gone to men from Northern States, some of them not even claiming Kentucky as their residence, while others have lived in the State for only a brief period of time.

Dr. W. A. Gantfield, who is a member of Governor Morrow's "bi-partisan" Board of Control, is a recent arrival in Kentucky from the State of Michigan in which the Republican party not long ago distinguished itself by buying a United States Senatorship in the open market.

Mr. George E. Stephens, who has just come to Kentucky from Illinois, was selected by Governor Morrow for the important position of his private secretary.

Mr. J. W. Carr, who it is understood claims no place of residence but the good Republican state of Pennsylvania, was appointed as Director of Physical Education (whatever that may mean,) an office created by the recent General Assembly.

There are said to be numerous other instances of this kind, but those mentioned above will be sufficient to illustrate the difference with which the Republican Party values the services of those who are proud to claim Kentucky as their native state, and the very tender feeling which Governor Morrow and those with whom he consults above appointments have for these adopted citizens from the Republican states of Pennsylvania, Illinois and Michigan.

However, in view of the influences which seem to be dominant in the Republican Party in Kentucky at this time, public criticism of Governor Morrow should not be too harsh. The self-constituted oligarchy of the Republican Party in Kentucky is a man who is but a recent arrival in our state from Indiana where he was well trained in the practical school of Republican politics of that state. Mr. Hert, having joined the Kentucky Republicanism to the Republicanism of Indiana, now proposed to annex the state of Ohio by the nomination of Mr. Richard P. Ernst who, though ostensibly a citizen of Covington, is an active member of a Cincinnati law firm, a member of clubs and other organizations in that Ohio city and naturally has his chief interests there.

Mr. Hert with an ambition for power in the national councils of the Republican Party may be playing a subtle game in the appointments of these exotic Kentuckians at the expense of our native citizens. With a Senator from Ohio, political appointees from Pennsylvania, Michigan and other Northern states, and himself still a ruling spirit in Indiana as he is in Kentucky that Cabinet job may yet go to its proper place.

BATTLE ON BARBERRY IS BEING CONTINUED

Approximately 2,000,000 Plants Destroyed in 1919.

Federal and State Authorities Combine to Protect Wheat Against Black Stem Rust—Other Crops Are Attacked.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Approximately 2,000,000 common barberry bushes were dug up and destroyed during 1919 in connection with the combined efforts of federal and state authorities to protect wheat against black stem rust which cannot survive unless it is able to spend one period in its life cycle on the leaves of the common barberry. For this work the past year the federal government appropriated $150,000. The territory in which the fight was carried on comprises Colorado, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming, which states supplemented the federal funds to a considerable degree. The combined expenditures were small in comparison with the size of the menace to wheat production by this disease. Cereal disease experts in the United States department of agriculture estimate that the wheat crop of 1919 in the United States was reduced 53,000,000 bushels by black stem rust alone in addition to damage by scab and other diseases. This damage by black stem rust has only been exceeded in one previous season, namely in 1916, when the total reduction of the wheat crop by this disease was 200,000,000 bushels. In addition to the 1919 loss of 53,000,000 bushels of wheat due to ravages of black stem rust, there was a loss of 17,000,000 bushels of oats and 4,700,000 bushels of barley due to the same cause.

Public Sale OF LAND

Saturday, May 15th,

AT TEN O'CLOCK, A. M.

Four and half miles from the Court House in Lancaster, Ky., near the Lexington pike, I will sell the farm of John F. Marsee and James Marsee, consisting of 135 acres, subdivided into four tracts.

This land is in a stone's throw of the Lexington pike, which within one year will be the Federal Highway. This land is divided into four homes and all good ones. All buildings in tip-top shape. Plenty of fruit, all roofs galvanized, good barns, splendidly watered, an ideal home or homes.

PAYMENTS EASY.

Any man who puts off buying for a day pays for waiting. Land has grown in value for 30 years; the longer you put it off the more it costs. If you buy this you will be able to sell for a profit before you have to pay a dollar. Inquire as to neighborhood, schools, churches. Costs you nothing to look. The men who are making the money are those who are not afraid to take hold. Think of your neighbor or friend, who has been a success, you will find him the fellow that's not afraid to back his judgment. Be on hand early. Pick up a bargain, while picking is good.

Ever Get Bilious? Try This

Take NR at once. Get digestive and eliminative organs working in harmony and relief is immediate. Never causes griping.

NR Tonight—Tomorrow Feel Right

When your liver goes on strike and you feel a sick headache and bilious spell coming on, instead of prodding your liver with dangerous cathartics and loading your bowels with strong, irritating purgatives, get out your box of mild, gentle-acting NR Tablets and take one right off.

Relief will come just as quickly and with it genuine, lasting benefit. There will be no griping, gnawing pains or doubling stomach ache.

Nature's Remedy (NR) Tablets work promptly and thoroughly, but the action is gentle, mild and soothing.

Relief comes through the action of Nature's Remedy on not only the liver, but on the whole digestive and eliminative system—the stomach, the bowels and even on the kidneys. Stored up accumulations of waste and body poisons that have been clogging the system are completely cleared out, the over-worked stomach is rested and the interrupted work of digestion and assimilation is resumed.

The inactive liver goes to work with new vigor, the bowels are unburdened, the headache leaves, that dull, "dopey" want-to-crawl-down-a-hole feeling disappears, energy,

"pep" and appetite return and you find yourself entirely, completely refreshed.

There is no better proof of the great value of Nature's Remedy for biliousness and constipation than the fact that more than one million NR Tablets are used every day—more than five million boxes sold every year.

If you've not already done so, get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR) Tablets and take the first tablet tonight. If your constipation is stubborn or persistent, continue to take one each night for a week or so. Then note how you feel. Your bowels will be as regular as clock work, and you'll find yourself in better shape physically, mentally, every way than you've been in for a day.

After that you need not take one every day. An occasional NR Tablet to keep your system in good condition will be sufficient, and you can always feel your best. Remember it is easier and cheaper to keep well than to get well. Just try it.

Nature's Remedy (NR) Tablets is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

GARDEN WORK IS MOST IMPORTANT

Mistake to Think That Cultivation Is Done for Sole Purpose of Killing Noxious Plants.

ROOTS NEED SUPPLY OF AIR

Soil Particles Are Broken Up and Plant Food Made Available for Rootlets—Dust Mulch Will Retain Moisture.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Most people have an idea that gardens are cultivated solely for the purpose of killing weeds. As a matter of fact, the killing of weeds is just one object of garden cultivation, say the specialists of the United States department of agriculture. The roots of plants require air just the same as do the tops, and if the ground is packed or hard or is sunbaked over the surface after a beating rain, the roots of the plants will turn yellow, and if not cared for will die. The same thing is true where the land is poorly drained and waterlogged. The water keeps out the air and the roots cannot feed the plants.

Cultivation has another object, in that it breaks up the soil particles and makes plant food available for the feeding rootlets of the plants.

In Some Gardens a Wheel Hoe Can Be Used to Good Advantage.

Many persons, however, make the mistake of cultivating too deeply, and by so doing cut off or injure the feeding rootlets and deprive the plant of its source of nourishment and support. Frequent shallow cultivation during dry weather results in the formation of a layer of fine dust which serves as a mulch or blanket to retain moisture.

Cultivating After Rains.

The soil should always be cultivated just as soon as it is sufficiently dry to be safely worked after heavy rains. If it is not cultivated, a crust forms, the surface bakes and the crops are injured. The same will apply where irrigation is used, and it has been found best to give the soil a thorough soaking, then cultivate as soon as it is dry enough, and apply no more water until absolutely necessary.

The hoe and the steel rake are the most important tools for cultivating the small garden. On a larger scale a wheel hoe and a horse cultivator may be used to advantage. Even where horse-drawn tools are occasionally used, the greater part of the work, especially during dry weather, may be performed by means of a common steel rake. It is not necessary to go very deeply into the soil, but merely to stir the surface.

A Tool That Helps.

A handy little tool for loosening the soil can be made from a piece of thin board two inches wide and fourteen inches long, with one end whittled down to form a handle and the opposite end provided with three No. 6 or No. 3 box nails or wire brads. This little home-made implement can be used very soon after a rain to loosen the surface, so that any small seeds can break through. The wheel-hoe outfits are provided with a number of different shovels and scrapers adapted for the different types of work to be performed. These implements have the advantage that one can go over the garden very rapidly and break up the surface of the soil in a comparatively short time. It is generally necessary, however, to follow with the hoe to remove any weeds that have been destroyed by the wheel cultivator.

Kill Weeds Young.

It should be borne in mind that the time to kill weeds is when they are just coming through the ground. If allowed to become established, it is much more difficult to get rid of them than if they are taken in time. If the top two inches of soil is kept continuously and thoroughly loosened, no serious difficulty in keeping out weeds is probable.

SOILS OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

Where Heavy or of Gumbo Type Hard, Most of Varieties of Fruit Should Be Planted.

Soils have much to do with the fruit growing. If your soil is very heavy or of gumbo type, choose the hardiest varieties. Also plant a few of the native fruits that may be grown in your vicinity.

Japanese Smoking Customs.

Smoking is very common in Japan. All the men and most of the ladies smoke, the girls beginning when they are about ten years of age. The ladies have pipes with longer stems than the men, and if one of them wishes to show a gentleman a special mark of favor, she lights her pipe, takes a whiff, hands it to him, and lets him smoke.

Anything Is Possible.

While one man says of a thing: "It is impossible!" and contents himself with saying so, another one passes him and does it. This has been the history of the world's progress ever since time began. We cannot say of anything that it is impossible in this marvelous world of invention and endeavor. We can only say: "It has never yet been done."

THORNHILL WAGONS

SOME Thornhill owners constantly comment on the ease with which the wagon can be "backed up." This is due to the full circle iron. The ordinary circle is but a half circle (○). In making a sharp turn bolsters often run to the end of the track and become "derailed." Thornhills cannot do this because their track is a circle (○).

Others comment on the fact that in spite of tremendous overloads, Thornhill axles never break. The reason for this is plain. They use tough highland hickory—reinforced by a steel truss bar that extends the full length of the axle.

Still others comment that the gears never get out of line. This unusual feature is due to one of their workmen's inventions. He designed a malleable front round plate—bolted to the gears at eight points. It's literally a jacket of iron that holds gears in line and insures light running for life.

From hilly sections come reports that the old trouble of broken king bolts is unknown among owners of Thornhill wagons. This because of a cup and saucer arrangement on the bolster that relieves the king bolt of strain.

To others the amazing feature is the long life of Thornhill beds—due to their location which gives them the pick of the yearly cutting of wood and due, in part, to the fact that they paint with pure lead and linseed oil despite its high cost.

Thousands of owners have found in Thornhills unusual strength where they are accustomed to weakness.

Let us show you this perfected wagon.

WHEN AND HOW TO PLANT GARDEN CROPS

Placing Seeds in a Furrow (Note How the Straight Row Was Made), and Covering the Seeds With Soil.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Common garden crops are divided by the United States department of agriculture specialists into four groups as regards the time of planting them in the open ground.

The first group includes the vegetables that will withstand considerable frost and which may be planted two or three weeks before the danger of frost is past in the spring. The second group, or semi-hardy crops, may be planted a few days before, or about the time, that the last killing frost is likely to occur. The third group, those easily killed by frost, should not be planted until all danger of frost is over. The fourth group, the heat-loving plants, should never be planted in the open until both the soil and the air are thoroughly warm.

Among the crops of the first group—that may be planted before frosts are past—are Irish potatoes, smooth peas, onion sets, cabbage plants, kale, turnips, beets, lettuce and mustard. They may be planted early, because they require two or three weeks to come up. While the young plants are easily injured by frost, by the time they sprout and come to the surface frost danger is likely to be past.

Don't Follow Moon Rule.

Some gardeners formerly believed in planting Irish potatoes and certain other garden crops in the proper phase of the moon. No one seems to know how the old moon theory originated, but it seems to date back to prehistoric times and probably was based upon the method of keeping time by moons rather than by months. There is no definite experimental data to show that the moon has any influence one way or the other, and experienced gardeners prefer to plant their potatoes at a time when the weather and soil conditions are right rather than according to the phase of the moon. Experience has shown that the point of most importance is to have the land in first-class condition for planting, then proceed to plant as soon as weather conditions permit.

When Peas Should Go In.

The dwarf or smooth varieties of English peas may be planted about the same time as Irish potatoes. Here again soil preparation is important, and the ground should be made fine and mellow before planting. Opinions differ as to the depth to which the seed peas should be covered. Some authorities claim they should be covered as much as four inches, while others maintain that two to three inches is sufficient. Much will depend, however, upon the character of the soil in which the crop is planted. If the soil is a light sandy loam and inclined to dry out quickly, the peas should be covered three to four inches. But if the soil is rather heavy and inclined to pack closely, they should not be covered more than one and one-half to two inches. The varieties of peas having wrinkled seed coats should not be planted until about two weeks after the smooth varieties. They are just a little more susceptible to injury from frost and will mature about as early if planted when the ground has slightly warmed.

When to Take Chance.

In the case of certain garden crops, the investment in seed is too great for taking a chance with the weather, but with beets, lettuce, and radishes a very small quantity of seed is required, and if they come through in good shape, the product will be ready for use much earlier than if the planting were delayed. About 25 or 30 feet of row will give all the early beets required by an ordinary family. Radishes may be planted in the rows with early peas. However, it will be necessary to remove the radishes before they begin to crowd the peas. As a rule, radishes will be ready for use in three to four weeks after planting, or just about the time that the peas have begun to make a vigorous growth. Most gardeners make the mistake of planting too many radishes, or at least of planting too many at one time and not being able to use the product.

The old-fashioned method of growing lettuce was to plant a bed along one side or in one corner of the garden, and when the plants were large enough, to thin them, using the product as needed and leaving the remainder to grow larger. This method of growing lettuce is not as desirable as the plan of growing it in rows, where it can be easily cultivated. Lettuce is very susceptible to heat, and it is difficult to grow it satisfactorily after the weather has become hot. For this reason it is best grown as a spring and a fall crop. Two or three plantings at intervals of ten days or two weeks in spring and a planting or two in autumn should be sufficient for the needs of the ordinary family.

Planting Second Group.

The second group, including carrots, beets, parsnips, radishes, salsify, wrinkled peas, spinach and early sweet corn, may be planted shortly before the probable time for the last spring frost. The planting of these crops should be so timed that they will escape frost and yet be started just as early as possible. The same planting methods should be followed as for the extremely early crops.

When Frost Is Past.

The third group of garden crops, or those that should not be planted until after danger of frost is past, includes cucumbers, cantaloupes, okra, Swiss chard, snap beans, cauliflower and tomato plants. The time of setting tomato plants, however, will depend somewhat on whether or not they are becoming crowded in the plant bed. If they are not crowded, it may pay to delay setting them in the open ground until the air is thoroughly warmed. Little is gained by planting this class of plants in the open very early.

The fourth group of plants, commonly known as the heat-loving plants, includes peppers, eggplants, sweet potatoes and summer squash. These crops are easily injured by cold nights and periods of rainy weather, and it is always best to delay planting them until a safe period has been reached. It should be borne in mind that certain soils warm up slowly in the springtime, and that such plants as eggplant and peppers are very susceptible to injury from cold soils.

INSPECT AT SMALL MARKETS

Grain Now Being Shipped Direct From Interior to Consumer or Ports for Export.

Grain is now being shipped direct from small markets or inspection points in the central West to the consumer or to ports for exports, on the basis of inspection at the shipping point, according to reports received by the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture. This is largely possible, according to the federal grain supervisors of the bureau, because under the grain standards act inspection and grading under the national standards is no longer confined solely to the larger markets. Any interior point having a federally licensed inspector can have official inspection.

BOYS AND GIRLS DEVELOPED

Object of Club Work Is to Make More Useful Men and Women—Money Is Secondary.

The object of the boys' and girls' club work of the United States department of agriculture and state colleges has always been and still is to develop boys and girls into useful men and women with an interest in the work of the farm and home and the industries upon which the future of the community and state depend. Growing of pigs, increasing yields of corn, designing of economical and attractive clothing, and conservation of fruit and vegetables are incidental to this undertaking. Important as they may seem, in other words, a boy cannot develop a state champion pig without at the same time developing himself.

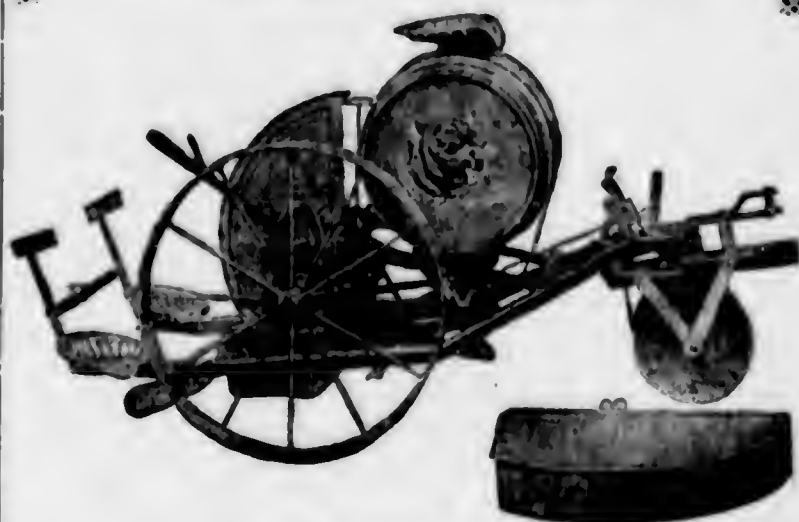

FARM WOODLOT IS VALUABLE

Fuel Furnished to Average Farm Family Is Big Item—Should Not Be Overlooked.

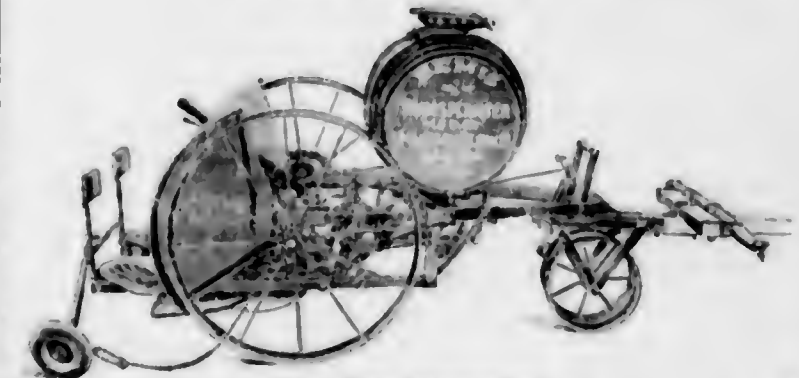

About half the fuel used on farms in general is furnished directly by the farm in the form of wood. The average farm family uses annually between nine and ten cords of wood for fuel, in addition to which about three tons of coal is bought. The wood, furnished almost altogether by the farm, represents a very considerable item. The farm woodlot should not be overlooked by the farmer in planning for the economical utilization of the resources of his farm, says the United States department of agriculture.

SALVATION ARMY IN PRISON WORK

Adjutant James Thompson Works Army Prisoners in Reformatories at Frankfort and Eddyville.

One of the most important departments of work conducted by the Salvation Army in Kentucky is that of Adj. James Thompson among the men and women in the state penal institutions. Adj. Thompson has been in charge of the Salvation Army corps at Frankfort and in connection with his labors has worked among the inmates of the Frankfort Reformatory and the state prison at Eddyville.

Great attention has been paid to the "Brighter Day League," a national organization of men and women prisoners fostered by the Salvation Army. Each member who joins the League is given a button to wear and a certificate of membership to hang on the wall of his cell. There are more than 600 members of the Brighter Day League in the Frankfort Reformatory and about 300 in Eddyville.

Adj. Thompson conducts a Bible class twice a year in the two prisons, continuing from six to eight weeks. Each contestant must stand and repeat from memory many passages of Scripture. There is keen rivalry among the contestants. Every Sunday the Adjutant spends many hours inside the prison walls, as well as on week days when his services can be utilized.

A prominent feature of Adj. Thompson's work is the care of needy families of prisoners who go to Frankfort to visit their relatives inside the prison walls or who seek to see the governor on pardon matters. Men, women and children often land in Frankfort, knowing no one and with little or no money. The welcome door of the Salvation Army Emergency Home is always open. The visitors are fed and given lodging and a ticket home. This is a part of the work funds for which are to be raised May 10-20.

KENTUCKY GIRL AT BOOTH HOSPITAL

Declares Her Life Was Saved at Salvation Army Memorial Hospital in Covington.

Not long ago a Louisville young woman was given up for dead by prominent physicians. They pronounced it cancer. Through the Salvation Army this young woman was taken to the Booth Memorial Hospital at Covington, conducted by the Salvation Army. For more than two hours leading surgeons of Covington and Cincinnati operated on this young woman while her faithful friend of the Salvation Army corps stood by to win her back to consciousness.

Today this young woman is alive and well and holds a fine position in a Cincinnati office. She declares that she owes her life to Booth Memorial Hospital, the surgeons and the faithful workers.

One object for which the Salvation Army's Home Service Appeal in Kentucky, May 10 to 20, is to be conducted is to raise money for an extension to this hospital so badly needed. Kentuckians in every part of the state are justified in giving to this fund because all Kentuckians are welcomed to Booth Memorial Hospital whether they have money or not. No person is turned away on account of a lack of funds.

Booth Memorial Hospital holds the record of caring for more charity patients than any other hospital in the United States. A training school is a part of the hospital work, and during the influenza epidemic many Salvation Army nurses were sent out into various sections of Kentucky and rendered valuable service.

AMERICAN LEGION TO SALVATION ARMY

Kentucky Department Commander Ulic Bell in Strong Letter to All Legion Members.

Ulic Bell, department commander of the American Legion, of Kentucky, in a recent endorsement of the Salvation Army, said:

"It will not be necessary for the American Legion to say to the former soldier that the Salvation Army is a good thing and deserves support. It is already well known that 'Johnny Buck' has learned to respect the 'Bully Ann' under a stress that has tried the souls of both. Soldiers of the Salvation Army shared in common, during the late war, the same risks and dangers faced by those who now make up the American Legion. It is the hope of the State Department of the Legion that the Salvation Army will meet with great success in its work and the conviction that 120 units of the American Legion in Kentucky will stand shoulder to shoulder with the Army in all good things."

The Salvation Army's Home Service Appeal is May 10-20.

TOUCHING TRIBUTE TO SALVATION ARMY

Kentucky Marine, Now Sleeping at Chateau Thierry, Sent Beautiful Message Home to Loved Friend.

One dark night, shortly after the American marines had received their first baptism of blood at Chateau Thierry, a Kentucky boy, Gilbert Young, of Springfield, sat crouched in a dugout writing a letter home. In it he described to one of his dearest friends and former teachers, Prof. George Colvin, now State Superintendent of Public Instruction of Kentucky, the terrible ordeal through which he had passed unscathed.

In one paragraph of that letter, now a precious and treasured memorial, the young Kentucky marine told of the great work that had been done during those trying hours by the various welfare agencies. "But greatest of them all," he wrote, "the greatest and best of them all, God bless them forever, is the Salvation Army."

The body of Gilbert Young, the brave Kentucky boy, lies today at Chateau Thierry beneath the hills of France, but his soul, poured out in his friend, goes marching on in tune with the great work the Salvation Army is seeking to accomplish now that swords have been turned into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks.

The sacrifice of Gilbert Young and the hundreds of other young Kentuckians who gave their lives for liberty during the world struggle will cause many a heart in the great Blue Grass state to pour out its benediction upon the Salvation Army when money is solicited in the Second Home Service Appeal campaign May 10 to 20. The Salvation Army today as always stands ready to help wherever there is a need.

URGE KENTUCKIANS ON IN BIG DRIVE

State Conference Held to Arouse Interest in Salvation Army Home Service Appeal, May 10 to 20.

In preparation for the final drive in the Salvation Army's Second Home Service Appeal, May 10 to 20, in Kentucky and other states east of the Mississippi river, a state conference of workers was held in Louisville on Wednesday.

Judge Henry S. Barker, of Louisville, the state chairman, presided and the toastmaster was Ben S. Washer, of Louisville, vice chairman and former national president of the Young Men's Hebrew Association. Governor Edwin P. Morrow, honorary state chairman, could not be present but sent a telegram giving his hearty endorsement and urging Kentuckians to leave no stone unturned to put Kentucky in the forefront of states in contributions. Governor James S. Cox of Ohio was also prevented from attending and sent a telegram of endorsement.

Prominent workers from all parts of the state pledged themselves to do their best. Prof. George Colvin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, delivered a splendid address in which he called upon all for renewed efforts in the big drive. Leading officers of the Salvation Army from this section told of their experiences in the actual work of the Army, most of them having served from 20 to 35 years in the ranks of this great organization.

Among other prominent workers in the Home Service Appeal are: Ben L. Bruner, secretary of the state executive committee; John R. Downing, treasurer; Dr. W. S. Lockhart, chairman of the speakers' bureau; Judge Walter V. Gregory, chairman of the publicity committee; Mrs. C. Malcolm Bullitt, Mayor George Weiskinger Smith of Louisville, Hon. W. P. Lincoln, Marvin H. Lewis, Alvin T. Hart, Dr. E. L. Powell, Dr. E. Y. Mullins and Dr. Charles W. Welch.

FRIENDLY HOME FOR WOMEN IS HELPED

Salvation Army Does Fine Work in Louisville Institution For Women and Girls.

The Susan Speed Davis Friendly Home for Women in Louisville is controlled and operated by the Salvation Army and is one of the institutions to be helped by the money raised in the Home Service Appeal to be made by the Salvation Army, May 10 to 20.

Four times as many cases were cared for in this Home during the past year and during the year before. This work has been carried on in the face of trying difficulties. It has been necessary to remodel and refurnish the Home, and in spite of this many have been cared for. Forty-three girls and young women were cared for there during the past month. Only six per cent of those cared for are over 18 years of age and many are under 14.

The Susan Speed Davis Home gives a welcome to all unfortunate girls and women, no matter from what part of Kentucky they come.

Lead and Steel

Lead is said to not like steel at ordinary temperatures in liquid air. It will serve as a brilliant spring, for example. This behavior of soft metals at the metals is interesting. It shows how very important temperature is. Just as iron is soft and malleable at a high red color so lead is soft and soft at ordinary temperatures. For it is well on its way to be melted.

Wedding Superstitions.

The expediency of time for weddings is due to the custom when that June takes an especial interest in marriage and the partners and blesses all who are wedded in June. The girl who postpones a wedding on Christmas day has nothing to fear. If a widow marries a second time in the same month in which she was married before, she will be a widow twice.

Wonderful Natural Spectacle
The garden at the foot of a tract of land about 500 acres in extent, near Colorado Springs, Colo. It abounds in weird and fantastic pinacles of red and white sandstone, some of them more than 200 feet high. Among the chief features are the Cathedral Spire, the Balanced Rock, etc. The gateway of the garden consists of two enormous masses of red sandstone, 250 feet high, sufficiently far apart for the roadway to pass between them.

To Open New Berks
Tend the garden with care to the berries up the mountain at the top of the hill. Do not let the berries get too open to the sun, or the fruit will be too large and soft and will not keep. The berries should be opened first a piece of wood of the size of a finger at the top and bottom of the cone. The berries should be opened in the center. A hole put into the center in this manner will give a fair chance of long life.

Precious Wood Carefully Preserved.
The forest of all precious woods is said to be the cedar under a tree which grows in Texas where it is found in great quantities. The wood is highly valued in building when polished for its almost priceless value. It is a good deal to its rarity. At one time the trees were quite plentiful in Texas but only a comparatively few specimens remain, and all these are numbered and jealously guarded by the government.

NO CHANCE TO COMPLAIN NOW, SHE DECLARES

Miss Vetter Has Gained
25 Pounds In Weight
And Feels Fine All the Time—Highly Lauds Trutona.

Louisville, Ky., May 12—"I weighed 140 pounds when I began taking Trutona but now I tipped the scales at 165 pounds after I had finished the treatment, and I feel so good all the time now that I don't even have a chance to complain. "Miss Ruby Vetter, a well-known employee of Herman Straus & Sons Co., who lives at 1041 South Seventh Street, Louisville, said recently.

"I used to be a telephone operator, but I had to give up the position on account of my nerves," she continued. "I had the 'flu' last spring and it left my system in bad shape. My stomach was so weak I couldn't stand even the lightest of foods. I felt bilious all the time and was subject to frequent smothering spells."

"Trutona had done my mother so much good that I decided to try it myself. The benefits I gained are really better than I even expected. When I had finished my third bottle of Trutona, I felt as strong as I ever did. And I'm still feeling that way. My nerves are strong and steady now and I'm eating heartier than ever. I'm working at the department store every day now, too, and I feel so good all the time that I don't have a chance to complain."

Can any one doubt the sincerity of this remarkable statement by Miss Vetter? It is further proof, to be added to ever increasing volume of testimony accumulating in favor of Trutona. As a system purifier and body invigorant for use after attacks of influenza, pneumonia and the like, Trutona has proven to be peerless. Trutona is sold in Lancaster at McRoberts Drug Store.

THE CURSE Of Social Scandal.

Of all the curses that pray upon the public the social scandal monger is the most accursed and damnable public nuisance. The man or the woman who peddles social scandal and passes it on to others is the most contemptible and cowardly cur that skulks up the back alley of any community. And yet this low-down, and contemptible, and criminal thing is being indulged in every day. Not a day passes but the good name and the good character of some man or woman is dragged in the filth and mire by these pernicious characters who have nothing to lose themselves, and who find it a joy in dragging others down to their level. A culture lives in rottenment, but a social scandal vulture lives on the character of others. And people who call themselves respectable will even receive and pass on to others these dirty, rotten lies about good men and women. Just let a slanderous report be started in our city to day by one of these human vultures concerning the best man or woman in the city, and forty tongues will be wagging before another sun rises. They just have to tell it. And when you trace it to them, they will say, "oh, such and such a person told me, but I did not believe it." Then why did you not have the manhood or womanhood to kill the lie or let it die with you. You are as guilty as the cur that first started it. Character is something that you cannot give back. Character is a man's capital and a woman's crown. Take it from them and you have driven them into slums. As long as we have slum men and slum women in the city no man's character is safe. If the doctors, and lawyers, and preachers in this city were to tell all that they know to-day, there would be a dozen killings in our city before another sun down, dozens of homes would be broken up, and scores of lives would be blighted. But they have learned to hold their tongues. Slander is about all the stock trade that some folks possess. A self-respecting man or woman does not deal in the commodity. If a slanderous report comes creeping along your street, will you kill the venomous thing, or will you pass it on? Well does Shakespeare say: "Who steals my purse steals trash; But he who fishes from me my good name Robs me of that which enriches him not, And makes me poor indeed."

The Red Wagons Are Coming.

The downtown billboards and dead walls are proclaiming with all the eloquence of the pictorial art that Sangers Greater European Shows will visit Lancaster, Saturday, May 15th. The announcement is hailed with delight by the juvenile element while some of the "older boys" are looking about for their stray nephews and nieces, saying they will go and carry the children to see the animals. But deep down in their hearts they know they would not miss the big show if there were not a single boy within a thousand miles of Lancaster on show day.

Although the Great Sanger Show is one of the oldest and most favorable known of all "white tops" attractions, the big show is visiting this section of the state for the first time. The show will come from Lebanon aboard its own special train of railroad cars. Many new and novel features are apart of this season's program. Among them being the Herry family of acrobats; the Siegrist Siders troupe of darling and intrepid acrobats; the Silverton trio, dancers on a lofty double wire; the Nelson family, gymnasts; the Aerical Christosens and the St. Leons. In addition there will be seen Prof. Sangers collection of educated Shetland ponies, monkeys and dogs.

There will be two performances, at 2 and 3 p. m., the doors opening an hour earlier to permit a concert of popular and operatic music by Prof. Fred Melvin and his military band. A downtown concert will be given at noon followed by a series of free exhibitions on the show grounds.
